Police Laxity Indicted By Tupper

Criminal Code 'Badly Enforced',
Says Commissioner in Report

By TOM GOULD, Times Legislature Reporter

An almost wholesale indictment of the enforcement of law and order in Vancouver, Canada's third largest city, was handed down Wednesday by Royal Commissioner R. H. Tupper.

BERT THOMAS

Thomas Tries 20-Mile Swim At 10 Tonight

Bert Thomas, only man to conquer the Strait of Juan de Fuca, will attempt to swim from Seattle to Tacoma tonight. The swim originally was set for Saturday night.

Thomas, who has been training three months for the bid, plans to leave about 10 p.m. from the southern section of Seattle on the 20-mile swim. His attempt is sponsored by the Tacoma Athletic Association.

"Sure, I'm going to make it. You know me, I don't see how I can miss," he said today.

He will be given a send-off by Greater Seattle Incorporated, the organization which sponsors the annual Seafair, and plans to land at the Tacoma city pier.

The 220-pound swimmer will be accompanied along the route by the United States Coast Guard. Idea of the swim is to raise money to finance a two-way attack on the English Channel this July.

Tupper's first of two reports—stemming from his seven-month investigation into Vancouver's police force—brought forth one outstanding declaration: "My inquiry has brought me to the firm conclusion that the Criminal Code of Canada is neither properly, nor efficiently enforced in the city of Vancouver."

"There is laxity in such enforcement, and such laxity has been present for many years."

The commissioner found that former police chief Walter Mulligan lacked leadership qualifications.

Tupper's voluminous report, over 160 pages, was tabled in the Legislature by Attorney-General Robert Bonner. It deals only with enforcement of law and administration of the police force.

His second report will be prepared at the close of the commission, and will deal with allegations of corruption and bribery, evidence on which has resulted in newspaper headlines across the nation for months.

The commissioner found one prevailing fault with the Vancouver police force: It does not have enough men to enforce the law, and it does not have enough men because the City of Vancouver is unwilling to provide the necessary money.

Included in his recommendations was a strong plea for an increase in the force's strength, strengthening of the detective branches, an increase in the support given police by the citizens of Vancouver, and an extensive police training program.

Here are Tupper's findings concerning enforcement of various sections of the Criminal Code:

VAGRANCY: Ottawa, with about half of Vancouver's 400,000 population, registered more than twice the number of arrests.

MOLLET TAKES JOB OF FORMING GOVERNMENT

PARIS (Reuters)—Guy Mollet, French Socialist leader, today accepted the task of forming a new government.

He is expected to ask confirmation of the newly-elected National Assembly next Tuesday.

The Socialist-Radical "Republican Front" alliance, led by Mollet and the new-deal Radical Pierre Mendes-France, has claimed the right to form the new government after the Jan. 2 election, which they considered a Republican Front victory.

Mollet will need support from parties outside the Republican Front.

Ottawa Boosts Civil Spending

Non-Defence Estimates Up;
Military Budget Stays Same

OTTAWA (CP)—A boost in federal spending for the 1956-57 fiscal year was indicated today in main estimates tabled in the Commons by Finance Minister Harris.

GEORGE GARDINER

The estimates—the government's basic spending program for the year that starts April 1—called for budget disbursements of $4,528,141,000, the highest peacetime figure at this stage.

However, it was exceeded over the full year of 1954-55 when Parliament voted $4,529,800,000. The 1956-57 total eventually will go past that mark with supplementary estimates later.

The all-time peak year for spending was the war period of 1943-44 when it amounted to $5,322,000,000.

The new figure, brought about by increases in civilian department spending while defence stayed almost exactly even, compares with $4,474,300,000 appropriated by Parliament in the current fiscal year.

The 1955-56 amount undoubtedly will be raised by a set of supplementary estimates before March 31.

Finance Minister Harris' budget last year called initially for budget spending of $4,362,000,000 and revenues of $4,202,000,000 for a $160,000,000 deficit. But revenues have been soaring and Mr. Harris recently predicted his deficit will be less than half the forecast sum.

The new estimate total does not take into account some $315,000,000, customarily not included in budget spending. This consists of $135,237,000 in return loans and advances and $379,515,000 in old-age pensions, which are financed out of special taxation.

But part of the cost of old-age pensions will be added later to the budget spending. The pension fund always has had a deficit and parliament annually votes enough to balance it at the end of the fiscal year. During the current year, $63,300,000 was needed to write off the 1954-55 deficit.

DEFENCE UP $380
For the coming year, the government's biggest single item—defence—is estimated at an almost unchanged $1,774,983,000, up by just $380. There also are small amounts for defence production and civil defence.

FREE SATURDAY
Jailed for treason on the basis of broadcasts she made from Japan during Second World War Iva (Tokyo Rose) D'Aquino will be released from Alderson, West Virginia reformatory for women on Saturday.

CANADIANS LEADING GERMANY
CORTINA (UP)—Canada led Germany, 4-0, at the end of the second period of their Olympic ice hockey match tonight.

CORTINA, Italy (UP)—Austria and Italy played a 2-2 tie today in the opening game of the Olympic ice hockey tournament. The Italians came from behind with goals in the second and third periods to tie.

Friday's schedule of events in the winter Olympic Games: Two men bobsled (11 p.m. tonight); 30 km. cross-country ski race (12 midnight); women's giant slalom skiing (1 a.m.); Czechoslovakia vs. United States (1:30 a.m.); Canada vs. Austria (5:30 a.m.); Germany vs. Italy (11 a.m.); Sweden vs. Russia (12:30 p.m.); first round games in the Olympic ice hockey tournament.

All times shown are Pacific Standard.

'HOT ROD' OWNER DIES 18 DAYS AFTER CRASH
Death came at 2:30 a.m. today for 20-year-old Frank Richard Lapp, 18 days after being injured in a "hot rod" crash on Burnside Road when a companion was killed almost instantly.

Lapp, who lived at 1325 Lang, never regained consciousness. He had head injuries, internal injuries and a fractured leg.

The crash occurred at Burnside and Marigold in the early morning of Jan. 8.

John William Hitchin, 23, 1955 Kings Road, died at hospital about one-half hour following the accident.

A third man, Phillip J. Fillion, 21, 1175 Yates, received head injuries, severe lacerations and shock. He has been released from hospital.

Coroner Dr. E. C. Hart said he will hold an inquiry into the death of Lapp. An inquest was held following the death of Hitchin.

A verdict of culpable neglect was returned by the jury, although it was not determined who was the driver. Lapp was referred to as the driver at one point in the inquest, and was the owner of the car.

Evidence given was that Lapp's "hot rod" was travelling over 70 miles an hour while passing a carload of friends on a curve.

The death car left the road, struck a 12-inch culvert six feet from the road, went out of control striking a power pole, flipped into the air and struck a steel stanchion at a service station.

Lapp was found lying behind

Ottawa Discloses Hospital Care Plan

50-50 Cost Sharing
Basic; Diagnostic
Services Included

BUP and CP Dispatches

OTTAWA—The federal government has offered the provinces a sliding-scale system of grants to help pay for a nation-wide plan of health insurance, Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent told Parliament today.

The plan would provide "standard ward care," the prime minister told the House.

As he spoke, Health Minister Martin was outlining the government's attitude to the federal-provincial health conference, meeting in another room of the Parliament building.

Mr. St. Laurent said that the basis of federal payments would amount to about half the shareable costs of hospital services.

LISTS EXCEPTIONS
The federal government was not prepared to share the hospital costs for mental and tubercular patients, a field traditionally provided for by the provinces for which there now are federal grants.

Mr. St. Laurent said the government will also help pay for laboratory, X-ray and diagnostic care for both in and outpatients.

This assistance would be available either before or along with implementation of hospital insurance contribution.

He outlined the proposed federal basis of payment in this way:

1. Participating provinces would receive from the federal treasury a 25 per cent share of their actual costs.

2. The other half of the federal government's 50 per cent would be based on the national cost average.

Mr. St. Laurent said his government will assist in diagnostic services.

He reiterated the federal government's stand that it will participate only when at least six provinces representing a majority of the population are ready to start.

No copies of either the Prime Minister's seven-page statement to the House or Martin's more detailed one to the delegates were available to the press. It was understood, however, that at tonight's break-up of the conference sitting, Martin would have a fuller outline of the Ottawa proposals ready for general release.

The conference, now in its fourth day, might last until Friday, Martin told reporters at the luncheon recess. It was probable that, even after a hard look at the Ottawa offer, the provincial representatives would want to consult with their governments at home before making any commitments.

It was known, however, that certainly a majority of the provinces were in favor of the principle of a health insurance plan. They only wanted to obtain as much from the federal authorities as "horse-trading" would accomplish.

NAMED PRIMATE
OTTAWA (CP)—Most Rev. Maurice Roy, Archbishop of Quebec, has been named Primate of Canada by Pope Pius XII.

He now ranks as senior Catholic archbishop in Canada behind James Cardinal McGuigan, Archbishop of Toronto, Paul-Emile Cardinal Leger, Archbishop of Montreal, and the apostolic delegate.

COLORING COMPETITION FOR YOUNG TOTEM FANS
Because of the wide interest shown in the tallest totem design appearing in Wednesday's paper, a few extra copies will be made available from the Times circulation department, 2631 Douglas.

These must be applied for in person, with the following form:

PRAYER FOR TODAY
ALMIGHTY, ever-present, first cause of everything, teach us to obey the inevitable laws of faith, hope and love. Deliver us from all our fears and lead us not into the temptation of wanting more than we need, or wasting our substance. For contentment leads to happiness and life everlasting. ## 'Big Bookie' Denies Paying For Protection

Bancroft Testifies
At Vancouver Probe

VANCOUVER (BUP)—The Tupper Royal Commission inquiry into the Vancouver police department moved toward a climax today. Bookmaker Leo Bancroft admitted he had engaged in bookmaking "on a big basis," but denied knowledge of pay-offs.

Bancroft testified today that he had given up bookmaking in Vancouver about 10 years ago on doctor's orders.

"I did book," he said, "but on a big basis, not a small." He denied he knew anything about police payoffs.

The inquiry, which is expected to conclude public hearings today in the wake of Commissioner R. H. Tupper's interim report presented to the Legislature Wednesday, was rocked this morning by a sharp verbal clash between tabloid writer Ray Munro and lawyer Nick Mussallem.

Munro and Mussallem clashed during cross-examination. Mussallem is representing Richard Mulloch, a nephew of ex-police chief Walter Mulligan, and fellow traffic constable George Burton at the hearings.

Mussallem questioned Munro extensively about a plaque the writer had produced at an earlier hearing.

The plaque, Munro said, was given to him at Christmas by members of the police department, reading in part, "There stands a man."

BORN IN INFAMY
Munro said he had not produced the plaque again because he felt there was a "slight stigma" attached to it through references Mussallem had made of it.

Mussallem snapped back, "It was born in infamy," wasn't it?"

Munro said he felt it was "possible some officers... perhaps the last remnants of the once-powerful Mulligan regime... put it there in the hope it would produce it at the commission and make a fool of myself."

Munro said he would produce the plaque again if commissioner Tupper requested it.

Munro accused Mussallem of breaking a confidence by getting information about him from his former counsel, Mussallem denied this.

The exchange was stopped then by Mr. Tupper.

RUSHED TO HOSPITAL
Another witness, Albert Towne, who had been mentioned earlier in connection with lotteries, denied any such knowledge and said his accuser, Parnell Johnson, was "vindictive" towards him.

Commissioner Tupper then announced that following Parnell's evidence in camera last Friday, Parnell was rushed to a hospital for treatment to his heart condition. Tupper said Johnson is still in hospital, but out of danger.

The commissioner said he would not allow cross-examination of the man.

IKE ASKS MILLIONS TO FIGHT CANCER
WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower asked Congress today to vote $126,525,000 for basic research to penetrate the "dark mystery" of cancer and to combat other leading killers.

The request was made in a five-point program laid before the legislators in a special message calling for "a renewed and rejuvenated attack on our health problems."

CROWN-ZELLERBACH HIRES RAINMAKER
VANCOUVER (BUP)—A commercial rainmaking company has been retained by Crown-Zellerbach Canada Ltd. in an effort to help alleviate a "critical" water shortage which has forced a newspaper production cutback at its Ocean Falls paper mill.

PAIS QUESTIONED
VANCOUVER (CP)—Victim of a gang beating here two years ago was interviewed in San Diego last week by the head of the special squad investigating evidence from the Tupper police inquiry.

Inspector M. J. Y. Dube of the RCMP, flew to the California city to see Alfred Pais, 33.

The inspector returned this week and submitted a report on his trip to commission counsel J. G. A. Hutcheson.

Pais and his wife were beaten by three men on July 22, 1954. Their attackers were later convicted and jailed.

Pais' name figured in the 1955 trial of William (Silent Bill) Semcken on a drug trafficking charge.

Dube stopped "only a few hours" in Los Angeles and it was indicated he did not see former Vancouver police chief Walter Mulligan.

Ex-Postmaster G. H. Gardiner Dies in Sleep

George H. Gardiner, 73, Victoria's postmaster from 1928 to his retirement in 1947, died at home in his sleep overnight after a brief illness Wednesday.

It was only three days ago that Mr. Gardiner was honored for his 40 years of service to Oak Bay United Church, first to St. Columba Presbyterian Church, then to the United Church after union in 1925.

A ceremony was held at the annual meeting of the church in the new church hall, when Judge J. B. Clearhue presented Mr. Gardiner with a camera, light meter, projector, and screen, gifts from the congregation.

HERE IN 1914
Born at Forfar, Angus, Scotland, Mr. Gardiner began his postal career in Scotland in 1897 as a telegraph messenger. He came to Canada in 1904 and started work in the Winnipeg post office. He came to Victoria in 1914 and became assistant postmaster here the same year.

Besides being treasurer of his church Mr. Gardiner was a trustee and board member. He also was secretary-treasurer of the Victoria Canadian Club; treasurer Southern Vancouver Island Drama Association and B.C. Drama Association; member Victoria Citizenship Council; past-president Victoria and District Cricket Association, and past-president Five C's Cricket Club.

Surviving besides his widow, at home, 1273 Hampshire Road, are his daughter, Mrs. R. O. Shaw, wife of the RCAF attaché at Belgrade, Yugoslavia, and three granddaughters, all in Yugoslavia.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later by McCall Bros.

Kremlin Wants World By Peace—Tweedsmuir

Son of Former Vice-Regent Warns Meeting Here; Urges Close Unity

The Russian Kremlin does not want war—they want the world without it, Lord Tweedsmuir told a joint meeting of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce and the men's and women's Canadian Clubs Wednesday.

On a flying trip to B.C. from England, Lord Tweedsmuir declared his belief that Russia would never relax her cold war against the Western Powers. "We must maintain our high level of armed forces even though we pay high taxes to maintain them. It is useless to complain—we must pay for our liberty."

Chamber president Pat Dunn presided over a packed audience and Premier Bennett was at the head table.

Tweedsmuir Highlights

Lord Tweedsmuir at joint meeting of Victoria Chamber of Commerce and the Men's and Women's Canadian Clubs Wednesday:

"I haven't been to Victoria for 19 years. It hasn't changed much except that I see you are now erecting the tallest totem pole in the world."

"What a pity we are not all atheists, then we could get along with one another like Christians."

"I am not going to talk about B.C. politics—generally speaking, I am in favor of all British Columbia governments at all times."

"I knew I had left my youth behind when three of my schoolmates were made bishops. I am now 45."

"The Russian Kremlin has a tolerance for the capitalist countries—the same tolerance a cat has for a mouse."

"My economics are simple. If you have two pigs and one dealer, pigs will be cheap. If you have one pig and two dealers, pigs will be dear."

"I learned one of the most valuable lessons in life from a first-aid booklet given to me when I was a soldier in the Canadian Army during the war. It said: If uncertain whether a patient is alive or dead, treat it as alive."

"The size of a country is no guarantee of its security. Size did not save the great prehistoric monsters from becoming extinct."

'Quit Hedging' On Sunday Sport, Urges Pastor

VANCOUVER (CP) — Rev. Keith Pollard, one of Vancouver's strongest opponents of commercial Sunday sport, Wednesday urged the provincial government to "quit hedging" and bring down enabling legislation.

Rev. Woodard of St. John's Church, said in an interview there was "no point in delaying the matter."

"The majority has spoken," he said. Rev. Woodard headed the committee opposing Sunday sport, passed by a small margin during the December civic voting.

Lay Sub Keel

PORTSMOUTH, N.H. (AP)—The keel of the Swordfish—the United States Navy's fourth and latest atomic-powered submarine—was laid Wednesday in ceremonies at the Portsmouth naval shipyard. When finished in 1959, the 257-foot submarine will carry a crew of eight officers and 75 men. The Swordfish is the first nuclear sub to be built at a government-owned shipyard.

BIG TRAVELLERS

Antarctic whales migrating each year are found off the Australian coasts between April and October.

"I personally would like to see dollars for travel in Canada given the same priority as dollars for investment in Canada," Lord Tweedsmuir said. "I have said this in the House of Lords and I will say it again and again."

"The more British Columbia buys from Britain, the more Britain can buy back," he said, and added:

"This province never made a finer investment in Britain than when it appointed W. A. McAdam as its agent-general in Britain. No less than 2,500 British Columbians registered at British Columbia House in London in 1955."

Mrs. Gordon Wismer, president of the Women's Canadian Club of Victoria, thanked the speaker and asked him to convey the club's greetings to Lady Tweedsmuir, who is Member of Parliament for South Aberdeen.

St. Aidan's Membership Decreases

Kamloops MP Blasts Govt. on Coffin Case

(From Times News Services)

The government's handling of the much-publicized Wilbert Coffin murder case has come out under sharp opposition criticism. The debate was closed out when the Commons voted 149 to 79 approval of the government's legislative program outlined in the speech from the throne.

For the third time in two days, Ross Thatcher, Ind-Moose Jaw-Lake Centre, who bolted the CCF party last year, voted with the Liberal majority against the three opposition parties and two Quebec independents, Paul Gagnon, Chitoutimi, and Raoul Poulin, Beauce. Tuesday night he helped defeat non-confidence motions of the Progressive Conservative and Social Credit groups.

30,000 Benefit

Relaxation of unemployment insurance restrictions will restore temporary-lost benefit payments to more than 30,000 workers.

Labor Minister Gregg announced terms of the change Wednesday, after complaints from many labor bodies. Officials said later it will have these effects:

1. Between 30,000 and 33,000 workers, temporarily disqualified from benefits after Parliament's new unemployment insurance legislation went into effect last Oct. 2, now will collect retroactively to that date.

2. They will get more than $3,000,000 in back benefits from the $900,000,000 insurance fund. The retroactive payments, officials said, should be largely cleaned up a month from now.

Standardized Traffic Rules Urged by MLA

Saanich Socred MLA John Tisdalle ranged over a wide variety of subjects in the House Wednesday, from silicosis to "souped-up drivers."

Tisdalle

Here are the main points he made: Traffic regulations throughout the province should be similar as a uniformity "would save lives and save nerves; flashing turn indicators on cars should be standardized and manufacturing companies "would be willing to conform"; illumination is needed on rear of trucks, apart from the tail-light. He advocated some type of fluorescent paint.

Mr. Tisdalle also urged extended preparations for school children on municipal streets, and a province-wide standard in this regard; a method whereby residents in B.C. would be eligible for hospital insurance benefits after six months rather than the present one-year limit; line with a secret program legislation to cover students hospital-wise who are out of the province more than three months per year due to studies; study of daylight saving time with the possibility of revision.

"Souped-up" drivers and not souped-up cars were the trouble on the highways, he said, and urged that fines for impaired driving, which now vary throughout the province, be standardized. When convicted of impaired driving, a licence should be taken away "for life," he said.

"It's worse than holding a loaded gun," Zoot-suit hoodlums who cause havoc on Halloween need more training in homes and schools, said Mr. Tisdalle, though he felt an "absolute" banning of fireworks would not be sensible. He asked a revision of the act to broaden the terms under which victims of silicosis get compensation.

On help to nurserymen, hurt in the serious frosts of November, he urged government-backed loans, based on individual production figures of the previous year.

"We must save these people and, more than that, offer legislation for assistance."

Covered 50-Mile Area

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A rocket engine, fired for 40 seconds in a test at North American Aviation's nearby Santa Susana plant, produced a blast heard over a 50-mile area Wednesday. A company spokesman said the firing was ordered in the test of a secret program under way. No other details were given.

MacArthur 76

NEW YORK (AP) — Gen. Douglas MacArthur, former United States Far Eastern commander, was 76 years old today. Now chairman of the board of the Sperry-Rand Corp., he planned a quiet day at home in his 37th-floor suite at the Waldorf-Astoria Towers with his wife, Jean, and son, Arthur, 17.

'DRIVE-UP' MAIL BOX WINS OTTAWA APPROVAL

Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce has been informed its proposal for curbside mailing boxes within easy reach of car windows has been approved in Ottawa.

The idea came from the civic affairs group. "We have been working on it for more than a year," publicity chairman Frank Mannix said. "We want to make it easier for the hurried motorist to post letters without leaving his car."

The first curbside box will be located on the edge of the curb directly in front of the post office building on Government street.

LEAGUE ASKS RIGHTS BILL

Vancouver branch of the League for Democratic Rights Wednesday lobbied MLAs, seeking support for a Bill of Rights for B.C.

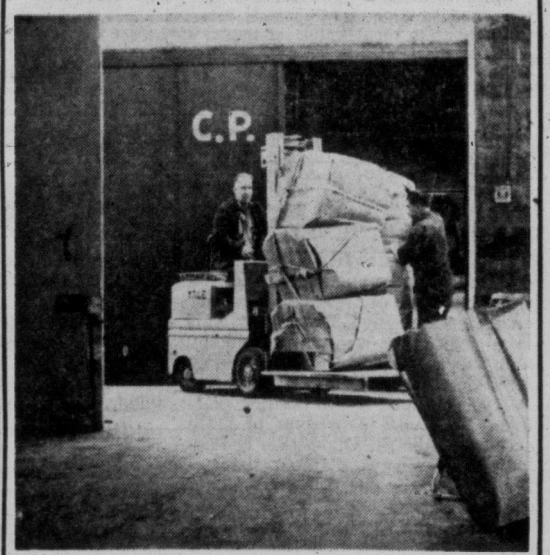

In a prepared brief, the League said B.C. requires a bill setting forth "those rights which very large numbers of people regard as their basic civil rights, and which provides penalties for infractions of those rights."

The brief said some of the rights the statute should protect are freedom of speech, assembly, and press; freedom to vote in provincial and municipal elections, and the freedom not to suffer discrimination by reason of sex, creed, color, or political belief.

Loaded Figures

MR. DREW IS DISTURBED BY the "lengthening shadow" of the state and sees our Canadian society endangered by Big Government. This is a legitimate viewpoint held by many Canadians but it comes oddly from Mr. Drew. His Conservative Party is pledged by its election platform to a vast expansion of state activity, while the Opposition in Parliament is always blaming the national Government for not doing enough.

In a recent speech Mr. Drew undertook to prove that the Government's activities, as gauged by its expenditures, have been expanding much more rapidly than the nation's ability to pay them. While the figures used by Mr. Drew are ingenious and no doubt strictly accurate, they distort the facts because they are figures carefully selected and lifted out of their context.

Mr. Drew says that the Government's expenditures in the five years between 1949 and 1954 rose by 110 per cent. At the same time the nation's gross production rose by only 46 per cent. At first sight this comparison will startle any taxpayer. But if Mr. Drew forgets, the taxpayer will remember, on reflection, what happened in those five years.

The Korean war broke out in 1950, alerted the free world and resulted in a general rearmament. In 1949 Canada's defence expenditures stood at $361 millions. By the end of 1954 they had reached $1.7 billions, increasing almost five times.

Mr. Drew did not oppose these increases. Like any sensible Canadian, he knew that the nation must be armed. Yet he does not bother to observe, in a partisan speech, that most of the increase in the Government's total budget was devoted not to normal public services but to the extraordinary, though essential costs of defence.

If Mr. Drew wished to be fair he would exclude the defence budget and examine the ordinary costs of government. As analyzed by The Winnipeg Free Press, these costs have risen somewhat faster than the gross national product, but not much. They are up 58 per cent, as against the rise of 46 per cent in our production. Thus the Federal Government's spending represented 11 per cent of production in 1949 and just under 12 per cent in 1954.

These figures drastically alter Mr. Drew's picture but the picture is still distorted. For the year 1954 was a relatively poor year in Canada, which felt a brief, worldwide recession. Our production dropped in that year while governmental expenditure did not drop. (Mr. Drew seems to forget, incidentally, that he was demanding increased expenditures at that time to cure a marginal problem of unemployment.)

Examining the preliminary figures for 1955—they are not yet complete—The Free Press calculates the national product at $26.4 billions as against $16.4 billions in 1949. This is an increase of over 60 per cent. Probably government spending also was up about 60 per cent from its 1949 level. Thus all expenditure, apart from defence, seems to have kept almost exactly parallel to our increase in wealth.

Mr. Drew no doubt is correct in suspecting that the Government is guilty of waste both in defence and civilian expenditure. Canada is not immune to the besetting sin of government. Most taxpayers will agree also that the total cost of government—federal, provincial and municipal—is too high when, according to a Senate committee, it absorbs about a third of our total income.

Nevertheless, most taxpayers are also urging continued increases in expenditure and Mr. Drew's demand for economy is always stated in general terms while, at the same time, he demands specific additions to the budget. And his latest venture into mathematics completely distorts our rate of spending for normal purposes when it is certainly high enough to require no exaggeration, even for Mr. Drew's purposes.

More for Everyone

THE PROCESS OF AUTOMATION now taking place in the United States and to some extent in Canada has been viewed with favor in some quarters and with dismay and antagonism in others.

Automation has been roughly described as follows: A machine that skins peaches and cans them is mechanization. When the machine automatically detects bad ones and tosses them out—that's automation.

In other words, an element of judgment, a critical faculty, has been introduced. Heretofore such a function has been the exclusive preserve of man. Now the machine is taking it over. Some sections of labor fear that this is the thin edge of the wedge; that it may be merely a matter of time before workers will be almost completely displaced, and great whirling factories will turn out goods under the supervision of a few overseers.

It may be that far in the future such a complete metamorphosis will take place. There can be little doubt, that the present technically advanced state of industry will undergo steady development. Barring a push-button war, push-button peace is a distinct possibility.

Unlike some of his fellow union executives, President O. A. Knight of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union—a group which surely must be in the van of industrial changes—takes an optimistic view of automation. He sees the great increase in labor-saving machinery as the direct reason why "the output of products per man-hour of work has increased steadily and rapidly," and in the next five years he predicts "an even more rapid expansion."

Increased output, of course, means increased income, and in this aspect of the process Mr. Knight sees labor's opportunity. He goes so far as to tell workers that "your wages can be doubled in the next five years." That may be somewhat on the hopeful side, but it is a fact that greater productivity is the only way by which labor can increase its income without losing the benefits through inflation.

Mr. Knight may also be allotting too small a share of the increase to capital, which must bear the cost of expensive machines and equipment if automation is to be successful. But the combination of automation and collective bargaining would appear to be a promising approach to the whole situation. As the New York Times observes, "Could Marxism possibly be more effectively confounded."

Plea for the Parade

ALDERMAN G. I. EDGELOW has drawn pointed attention to the lack of support given Victoria's big parade by some merchants. Unless they get behind the May 24 procession, it will lose its appeal and disintegrate, he believes.

The chairman of the Greater Victoria Celebrations Committee has spoken frankly and has given Victoria concerns ample time in which to remedy their apparent apathy. As a matter of civic pride, they may be expected to do better in future.

All over this continent people know of the Pasadena Rose Festival and the New Orleans Mardi Gras. Throughout the Pacific Northwest they are well informed on the Portland rose carnival. In times past they have had occasion to note the special local festival, Victoria Day.

For a time the May 24th events languished. They have been revived and, in recent years, have stimulated enthusiastic participation in many events by our citizens.

A central feature of any festival on that date here must be the parade. Mr. Edgelow asks the merchants to take that fact to heart. It's their show. It can be made a feature claiming wide publicity and attracting swarms of visitors. But it will not grow to such proportions by neglect.

Recognition for the Dogwood

FORMAL SELECTION OF THE dogwood as British Columbia's official floral emblem will be generally appreciated in this community and on the lower mainland.

These are the areas in which the flowering tree grows most prolifically. They are, also, the commercial centres in which dogwood decorations of various kinds have been popularized as an unofficial symbol of British Columbia. Now, through usage as it were, the bloom has earned its place and will be recognized.

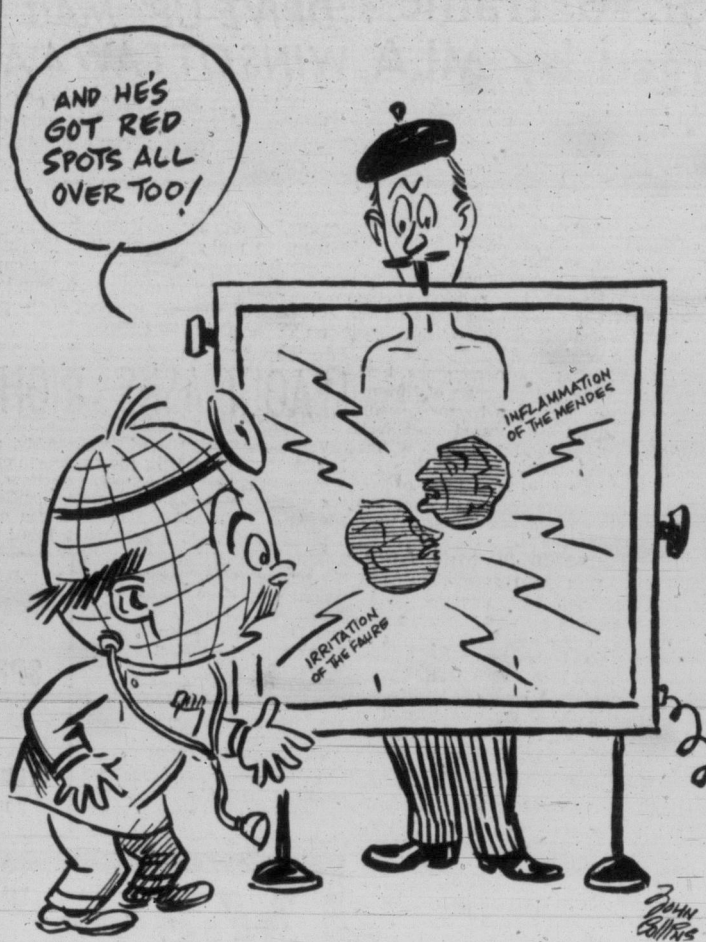

The argument has been advanced at different times that dogwood was unsuitable because its range throughout B.C. was too limited. Whatever merit there may be in that argument, it fades when other emblems are considered.

The lion, for instance, is brought into use as a symbol in lands where the lion has never trod. Mythical animals have been employed for the same emblematic purpose.

But the dogwood need depend on no such precedent to justify its choice. It can rest securely on the beauty of its blossoms in spring, the brilliance of its foliage in autumn and the green and black symmetry of its lines in summer as ample reasons for its selection.

The Local Patriots

THE rather barren politics of British Columbia at last have discovered a real issue. Like most issues of public importance, it appears quietly and vaguely. It does not announce its arrival with a shout. It will take time to develop. But this issue, though not yet fully grasped, is fundamental and will not down.

Stated broadly but accurately, the issue is simply whether British Columbia is a part of Canada or a kind of independent power which, at pleasure, delegates certain rights and certain monies to the Parliament and Government of Canada. Whether he knows it or not, this is essentially the issue raised by Premier Bennett in his recent attack on certain national taxation policies.

NOW, Mr. Bennett has grossly distorted those policies and disfigured all his arguments by a cheap personal smear on the Prime Minister of Canada, a man quite as respectable as Mr. Bennett. But all these red herrings are beside the point.

The point is that Mr. Bennett demands for British Columbia a special and privileged position within Confederation. He does not deny that he is making such a claim; he glories in it and he obviously regards it as a sure way of winning votes in British Columbia.

Mr. Webster and Mr. Laing seem to understand the nature of the issue thus raised. They both take the position that British Columbia is a province of Canada, however rich and fortunate it may be, that national policy must be constructed for the good of the whole nation, and that the people of British Columbia are Canadians first and British Columbians second.

AT FIRST sight it may be said that this dispute is too abstract, theoretical and—in the case of taxes—too technical to cut any ice in practical politics. If Mr. Bennett thinks that, he is not as clever as I thought. If he thinks that, he knows very little about the nature of the Canadian people.

The whole history of Canada is nothing but the record of a people who, whenever they have seen a policy or a politician endangering the larger purposes of the nation, have extinguished that policy and that politician.

It was no accident, for example, that the Pattullo Government was extinguished a few months after it had joined the Heppburn Government of Ontario and the Aberhart Government of Alberta in what the public considered an attempt to frustrate national policy.

IT IS NO accident that every provincial politician in Canadian history who has thriven on some provincial issue, some feud with the nation, has failed invariably in national politics.

In the short run, of course, any provincial politician can thrive by attacking the nation. A ferocious local patriotism, or even a whimpering cry for local justice, will always make some votes. Many British Columbians no doubt will commend Mr. Bennett for demanding that his Government get more money from Ottawa than other provinces are getting and will fail to remember that they must provide that money out of their own pockets, whoever spends it. But these must be short-run gains for Mr. Bennett unless the whole nature of our people has changed overnight.

Most British Columbians, when they think it over, will see that British Columbia has not only received full justice from the nation but is today, by far, the most fortunate province in the nation.

WHERE does our present prosperity come from? What is the source of the great British Columbia boom of which Mr. Bennett is always boasting? His opulence and our good fortune stem out of national policies constructed by the national government which he is always denouncing.

Most British Columbians, I suspect, will resent it when Mr. Bennett boasts of the boom in one breath and, in the next, represents this province as the poor wail, mendicant and Cinderella of Confederation.

Most British Columbians will agree that their province should be treated by Ottawa exactly as the other provinces are treated, no better, no worse. And that is the purpose of the present taxation proposal—it gives the same treatment to every province by a strict mathematical formula.

THE Federal Government's original mistake was to make variable taxation deals with various provinces, by one device or another. British Columbia thus got a special deal and a privileged position. When we are placed on the same footing as the other provinces, Mr. Bennett complains of injustice, goes on to misrepresent the federal policy and says that Quebec is now getting a special deal, though he must know this to be mathematically untrue.

If Mr. Bennett wishes to antagonize the other provinces, to foment prejudice against Quebec and thus to undermine Social Credit as a national movement, nobody can stop him. If he is destroying himself as a prospective national figure that is his private tragedy—sad but perhaps bearable.

WHEN Mr. Bennett assumes that the people of this province put their own temporary advantage above the general welfare of their nation, when he supposes that they are British Columbians first and Canadians second, he is underestimating them. For all their faults, they are not that kind of people. For all their confusion, they will finally grasp the issue raised by Mr. Bennett, who conceivably is overestimating himself.

RE EDITORIAL: "NO BULLYING"

It was a pleasant surprise to see your editorial under the above heading in last Monday's Times.

It was particularly pleasing, of course, in a purely personal way because of its complimentary and valued reference to me. But it was pleasant also because of its well-merited salute to Mr. Justice Lord, whose handling of the case was admirable throughout, and, finally, for the extremely important reason that it supported the judge's able dispelling of any shadow Mr. Scott's action had cast temporarily over myself and the city's election machinery after 29 years of unclouded and priceless public confidence.

"O Lord of hosts, blessed is the man that trusteth in Thee" (Psalm 84, 12).

I thank you very much for your thoughtfulness and consideration which are greatly appreciated.

IMMORTAL MEMORY

Robert Burns, born on January 25, 1759. It was a proud year for Great Britain, a year of events decisive in the course of history and of men whose fame is an illustrious national possession.

But among those events none is more memorable than the birth of a son in the poorest of Scottish homes, Robert Burns. His power to depict national life and character and kindle an imperishable patriotism cannot be limited by any nationality or country.

Undoubtedly Burns interpreted Scotland as no other country has been revealed by a kindred genius. In setting words to Scotch melodies, Burns turns to music the emotions common to humanity and so he passes from the exclusive love of Scotland into the reverence of the world.

Burns reveals us to ourselves, and touches the soul with the fever of divine aspiration and in this world of sordid and restless anxiety he fills us with serene joy and puts in permanent form our best thoughts: Songs immortal as love, pure as the dew of the morning, songs with which the mother soothes her child, and by which the heart of a people beats with patriotic exultation, songs that cheer human endeavour, and console human sorrow, and exalt human life. We cannot find out the secret of their power.

Until we know why the rose is sweet, or the dewdrop pure, or the rainbow beautiful, we cannot know why the poet is the best benefactor of humanity. The inventor multiplies the facilities of life, but the poet makes life better and more worth living for the spiritual power of poetry, like that of natural beauty, is immeasurable.

What finer poem is there than "The Cotter's Saturday Night"—"That he who stills the raven's clamorous nest. And decks the lily fair in flowery pride, Would in the way His wisdom sees the best. For them and for their little ones provide, But chiefly in their hearts, with grace divine provide."

ANNE DOUGLAS.

HUMANE SLAUGHTERING

Quite a number of letters have been published regarding the present antiquated horrible method used in the slaughtering of animals, but unfortunately they seem to fall on deaf ears.

Much interest and publicity is being shown regarding the blood sport of fox hunting in England, which I agree is revolting. But we have cruelty in the worst form right here at home.

If any one has the courage let them visit the slaughter houses during the killing. This antiquated method is disgraceful, when a much more humane method can be used, such as is used in England and many other countries.

These dumb creatures have served us during their years of usefulness. And what is their reward? A horrible death by our present outdated method of slaughtering, when there is a much more merciful means which would alleviate much suffering.

Sympathy is useless. A letter sent in by C. E. Blandy suggested help from the church. I am afraid we would not get much help in that direction, as most ministers will tell you animals have no soul.

That may be so, but their sense of pain is just as keen as a human being's.

If the S.P.C.A. service clubs and various organizations would get together and demand the same humane method of slaughtering as is used in England and many other countries, then we might get some action. Let us speak for those who cannot speak for themselves.

K. BARRETT.

Battle of the Missiles

BY JOSEPH AND STEWART ALSOP, From Washington

THE American government now has in its possession "convincing evidence that the Soviet Union has successfully built a guided rocket with a striking range of approximately 1,500 miles. This is the so-called intermediate range ballistic missile, or IRBM in common Pentagon jargon."

Building an American IRBM is the purpose of newly authorized, highest priority weapons development programs of the U.S. Army and U.S. Air Force.

There have been earlier rumors and reports that the Soviets might probably have this weapon which the American services have just begun scrambling to get. These have come from several sources, notably Sen. Henry Jackson of Washington. This is the first time, however, that it has been possible to state on undoubted authority that the Pentagon has its hands virtually conclusive evidence of the existence of a Soviet IRBM.

MASSIVE SOVIET ADVANCES

There is a good deal more than this, in fact. One new weapon may be the result of a brilliant accidental breakthrough. Producing a family of new weapons requires a general forward movement on all technical fronts, and the evidence indicates that the Soviets have such a family of intermediate ballistic missiles with ranges varying from 800 miles to 1,500.

This in turn confirms the long-prevalent suspicion that the Soviet have achieved massive advances in the missile art. To be sure, the data are lacking to show positively whether the Soviet test missiles have yet attained satisfactory accuracy in guidance. It is not positively known, either, whether these test missiles have been capable of being fitted with a nuclear warhead.

Yet these two unknowns in the equation are not so impressive as they may seem at first glance. The problem of fitting a nuclear warhead is relatively minor, compared to the really basic problems of ballistic missile design. Even the design of efficient guidance mechanisms is no more difficult than engine design, metallurgy and all the other problems which the Soviets must certainly have solved in order to make their birds fly at all. And the birds have flown; there is no question about that.

For these reasons, it must now be assumed that the time is fairly near at hand, if indeed it has not been reached already, when the Soviets will pass from the testing phase into the vital phase of producing intermediate range ballistic missiles in militarily significant quantities.

ULTIMATE WEAPON SOON?

By the same token, it is also reasonable to suppose that the Soviets are well on their way to building the even more important intercontinental ballistic missile, or ICBM—the ultimate weapon which will carry nuclear warheads from continent to continent. Marshal Bulganin recently made a public boast on this point.

The Soviet IRBM tests are also rather final and decisive proof that the United States has lagged far behind in missile development. Until a few months ago, the American missile program altogether neglected the intermediate ranges, which had been the subject of an inter-service quarrel of classical venom and dimensions.

There were short range, tactical missile projects, such as those which have been centered at the Army's Redstone Laboratory. There were also long-range projects sponsored by the Air Force—"Atlas," for an intercontinental ballistic missile; "Navajo," for an intercontinental ramjet; and the highly dubious "Snark," for a long-range pilotless aircraft.

But the projects for intermediate range ballistic missiles only came to life some months ago. At that time the National Security Council, no doubt partly moved by the news of the Soviet IRBM, gave an overriding priority to guided missile development.

Final approval of the Army's paper plans for producing an IRBM at the Redstone Laboratory was granted only a few days ago by the Pentagon's Ballistic Missile Science Advisory Committee headed by Dr. John Von Neumann.

CRASH EFFORT

Besides the Army project, there is one more American IRBM project, controlled by the Air Force. Both these IRBM projects are going forward concurrently with a crash effort to get the earliest possible results from the intercontinental missile projects. There is even some Air Force criticism that the extremely belated attempt to get IRBMs will interfere seriously with the more important attempt to get ICBMs.

Thus the Soviets now have an intermediate range missile, which we have not got and can hardly get for a considerable time to come. In the form of this IRBM, the Soviets also have a solid leg in the race for the intercontinental missile, which we are now trying to win by a crash effort.

By any reasonable test, therefore, the Soviets are importantly ahead of the United States, at least for the present, in the vital field of guided missile development.

Curiously enough, however, the most important short-run effect of the Soviet success with the IRBM may well prove to be its effect on the American Strategic Air Command. Very few Americans realize that the great SAC force, which is the mainspring of American and free world strategy, is not really a long-range air force. Yet about 80 per cent of SAC's fighting aircraft are medium-range B-47s.

SOVIET TARGETS

To reach Soviet targets, the B-47s must either take off from overseas air bases, or else be twice refueled in the air. SAC's tanker fleet is insufficient to provide double air-refueling for more than about one-fifth of SAC's 1,500 B-47s. Hence SAC today is almost wholly dependent on its overseas air bases. And it is precisely SAC's overseas air bases that the new Soviet IRBMs will threaten most directly.

Protecting the overseas air bases against destruction by ballistic missiles is utterly impossible in the present stage of the missile art. The difference in time factors for missiles and aircraft is so enormously great that the overseas bases might be utterly destroyed by IRBMs before the aircraft could even retaliate," could even be ordered.

With the overseas bases out of commission, in turn, there is every reason to think that American "massive retaliation" would not be nearly as massive enough. The SAC commander, Gen. Curtis LeMay, would then be able to mount an attack on the scale of only a little more than 600 aircraft, rather than the attack on the scale of 1,900 aircraft—which is the size of this total force.

This explains, no doubt, why Gen. LeMay asked this year to have his B-47s replaced by urgent and greatly stepped-up production of B-52s. His request was rejected for reasons of budgetary economy, but here again, the news of the Soviet IRBM would seem to change the picture.

Skittering

MY mind's been skittering lately, but it's been a skittering, checked, mixed-up kind of week with lots of stray surface thoughts and not much time for serious thinking.

Some days the wind has howled like a mad hyena down the bathroom pipe, and sea-gulls have swum and paddled on our front field. Life on those days has seemed too full of muddy gum-boots, the smell of wet dog and wet cat, the rather horrid smell of sludge, and I've been sure that winter would go on and on and on, and that spring would never come.

But there've been the sunny days as well when clothes have dried upon the line, and meadow-larks have sung, and I've known for sure that spring is bound to come. As a result, I've thought of all the sights and sounds of spring — of the froggy chorus that will soon be heard all down the valley; of buttocky women in too-tight working slacks; of Victoria's ardent gardeners falling on their knees with ecstatic little cries, or leaping like chamois among their gold and purple rockeries.

I've thought of the city friend who, one day soon, is sure to appear on our back porch, and, saying that my dear she MUST have pussywillow, will drag me up hill and down dale until I'm quite exhausted.

I went to see the Ice Capades, and was delighted by the color, speed and lighting, and by the sheer showmanship of it all.

I've been to see the Stratford Players in "Macbeth" and, though the performance held my attention completely and made the familiar world drop away, it was largely a matter of intellectual curiosity as to how they'd handle certain lines and scenes. Except for the stabbing of the young Macduff and the thin sound of his whimpering, I wasn't moved at all.

The central tragedy of Macbeth which I have always thought to be the moral disintegration of Macbeth himself somehow didn't come through to me at all. But perhaps the fault was mine. For I'm no drama critic. I only know that I felt it to be an interesting performance, but an unconvincing one.

I've been several times to see an old friend in hospital. And, as a result, I've thought of illness and how quickly the hospital routine sets in, and of how men, when they are sick, look so much more pathetic and go to pieces faster than women do.

By request, I've hunted up some lightish books for a friend who's going to hospital any minute to have her second baby. So I am hoping that, this summer, I shall sometimes be allowed to have a tiny baby to snuggle up and play with.

I've been to see a film called "The Village" and not thought much of it as a film, though its deliberate message of international understanding through the mingling of orphaned children from opposing war-torn countries touched me deeply.

Because of the film, I've hunted up an article I had on the Pestalozzi Village in Switzerland, and I've read what the Book of Knowledge had to say about the real Pestalozzi who started a school for Swiss orphans after the Napoleonic wars. I've thought with pride of how my three-times-great-grandfather was sent with his little brother to that same school. (These two little boys travelled by coach all the way from Frankfurt to Zurich and some of the letters exchanged between Pestalozzi and their father, Dr. Lejeune, are now in the Pestalozzi Museum in Zurich.)

Over cups of coffee in our kitchen a social worker and I have had long and kindly talk about the special problems of children of mixed blood when they reach marriageable age.

Thanks to the telephone, I've had my ear chewed off for a solid hour by a reader who doesn't like this woman's outlook very much. (And that's an understatement!)

Sickness and health, sunshine and rain, hate and kindness, cows and "culture" — it's been a mixed-up kind of week.

For anyone as slow-paced as I am, it's been a bit too much.

Next week I'm firmly staying home.

I've had enough of skittering.

LONDON LETTER

By WALLACE REYBURN

Exact Hour of Death

LONDON—Have you ever wondered, when reading a news report of a murder or reading about one in a thriller, how it is that a doctor can state with such assurance that the victim died at 5 a.m. or whatever time it happened to be? How do the doctors know that's something that has always puzzled me. But no longer.

I had been reading about the murder which is currently occupying people's minds here and when I bumped into a Scotland Yard man. I know I asked him how the doctor could be so sure of the time of death of the woman murdered. He explained it to me. It is based on rigor mortis.

Apparently, when a person dies rigor mortis starts to set in at the feet, working its way up the body. Then, when the whole body has gone stiff, it starts to loosen again, working down from the head until eventually the state of rigor mortis has departed.

It takes a set number of hours for rigor mortis to go up and down the body. The doctor needs merely to check what part of the body it has reached on its upward or downward journey and in that way he can say how long ago the person died.

And while on this topic, MPs are much exercised in the House regarding the debate on the proposed abolition of the death penalty. Columnist Beachcomber of the Daily Express comments: "Let the murderers be the ones to set the example."

Gruesome toy on the market which the RSPCA is hoping to get banned before it has a chance to appear in kids' Christmas stockings: In toy shops you can buy what looks like a cat's tail with a squeaker on one end — you jam the squeaker in the door and say: "Look, mum, Tabby's got her tail caught in the door."

Sad anecdote going the rounds concerns a theatrical agent who was sent to prison for 20 years. He was remanding his lot when he espied an ant crawling across the floor of his cell. He caught it and decided he would devote his time in jail to training it to be the greatest performing ant in history. By the time he was released it would do the most amazing tricks — and the man felt his time in prison was not entirely lost because he would be able to make a fortune out of his performing ant.

He set off to call on an impresario whom he knew would leap at the chance of presenting him and his performing ant to the public but on the way he dropped into a pub to have his first welcome glass of beer after 20 years in jail. So excited was he about his ant that he could not resist showing it to the barman. He took it out and placed it on the bar and then called the barman over.

"Look at this," he said. The barman looked down at the bar and then, squashing the ant under his thumb, said: "Yeah, we get 'em in here this time of year."

Dockers' Strike Hits Employment

SYDNEY (Reuters)—Australia today faced the threat of mass unemployment as a country-wide strike of 24,000 dockworkers entered its third day.

More than 5,000 seamen are being notified they will be fired, and about 10,000 coal miners will be laid off because of a shortage of ships to carry interstate coal cargoes. If the dock walkout continues, other vital industries also will come to a standstill.

Trio Fined $350 For Smuggling Rum Into Canada

VANCOUVER (CP) — Two New Zealand seamen and a North Vancouver man were fined a total of $350 Wednesday for illegally bringing 30 quarts of rum into Canada.

Mervin Boyce Pledger and Murdo MacLeod of the freighter Ss. Waltemata, were each fined $100 while Ernest Williamson of North Vancouver was fined $150.

The trio was arrested Tuesday and charged under the customs act. All pleaded guilty.

Waltemata is the ship that was searched at Victoria and Vancouver by an Australian police officer, who had flown to Canada to intercept the vessel. The detective was hunting clues in the killing of a native woman during the freighter's stay at a South Pacific island, to a standstill.

Man on the Trampoline

A trampoline is that bounding table equipment you see acrobats use in circuses and on TV. It's a web surface, about 10 feet by 10 feet, held by springs or heavy elastic on a sturdy square frame, maybe three feet off the floor.

The tumbler climbs onto it and starts to bounce. He jumps up and down until he gets enough height and then he goes into his tricks. A good man can somersault, twist, drop on the seat of his pants or on his chest and ride back into the air to land on his feet.

He looks a little like a person tossed in a blanket. And if he's not careful, he runs the risk of landing on his head on the floor.

Saanich's Social Creditor, John Douglas (no longer Tisdale) is the best verbal trampoline performer in the Legislature. A speech is a bounding table to him. Launch him on one and he can bounce, somersault and twist in a way guaranteed to prevent hardening of the arteries. If you pay close attention, you'll notice that he throws in a few good tricks, too.

A severe cold cut down Mr. Tisdale's bounce on Wednesday, but didn't stop him from going on. He's a trouper and

Segur-Neuberger Hydro Plan

Before him Mr. Vincent Segur, Revelstoke's CCFer, had devoted himself extensively to the Columbia hydro development proposals, which he thinks the government should handle through the B.C. Power Commission in conjunction with the Banneville authority.

The fatherly Revelstoke figure, who checks the time on the Legislature's clock against his tired and trusted railwayman's watch, is much impressed with U.S. Senator Neuberger's plans for the Columbia.

If the government would take the advice of Senator Neuberger and himself, it would have cheap power from a Mica Creek dam financed by American capital for half the downstream benefits of stored water plus a B.C. expenditure of $55 million for a generating plant at the site.

To which Premier Bennett replies "It isn't good enough." But the premier seems to agree with Mr. Segur that school boys shouldn't be employed by distilling and brewing firms, where the opportunity for sampling comes much too frequently.

Mr. Rae Eddie, who won New Westminster for the CCF, brought the speeches to an orderly and quiet close—a little too orderly and too quiet for sustained interest.

Mr. Eddie is not spectacular as a speaker. He presents his case with a minimum of excitement, takes care to cover his riding's needs, would very much like Mr. Chant to give the Royal City a new courthouse too, since courthouses seem to be in the deal, and would appreciate a bridge or two as well.

Among other things, he's happy about designation of the dogwood as B.C.'s floral emblem—a cause he has championed in the House on behalf of the Native Daughters. They'll be pleased, too, he says.

English monarchs, with an eye to masts for the Royal Navy, customarily reserved rights to certain types and sizes of trees in their charters to the American colonies.

NANAIMO—New legislation on secession and inclusion rights of communities came under fire at the regular meeting here Wednesday of the Vancouver Island Municipalities Association.

WEST COAST LOGGERS FLY TO HOSPITAL

VANCOUVER (CP)—Two men, injured in separate accidents at the Tahsis Logging Co., on Vancouver Island, were flown to Vancouver Wednesday.

Injured were Joe Caulfield, 40, and Mons Asse, 22, both of Vancouver. Mr. Caulfield suffered a broken leg while Mr. Asse was suffering from a crushed chest.

Nanaimo MLA Asks Thought For Old Folks

The B.C. legislature Tuesday was asked to consider the problems confronting people in the over 65 age bracket as the result of the machine age.

Dr. Larry Giovando, Independent MLA for Nanaimo-The Islands, said medical science has extended the life span, but that society has neglected to make provision for people considered "too old" by employers.

"Over 40 and under 65, also, it is practically unable to obtain steady work," said Giovando. He said one of the bars to this age group is that they are too late in entering company pension plans.

ABLE, WILLING He said many people retire at 65 although "many are in good health, and capable and willing to earn a living. As a result of the age-bar, they are forced to live on low incomes, and their capacity to produce is wasted."

"We are neglecting to take care of the comfort and occupation of these people," said the Nanaimo doctor.

He said the population is divided into four classes by the machine age: pre-employment, employment, 40-65, where they are unable to get a job, and over 65, when they are considered too old to work.

Dr. Giovando also told the House that the death penalty should be imposed on drug peddlers who sell narcotics to teen-agers. He said there is a growing trend to impose the death penalty in such cases.

He also urged establishment of free drug clinics, similar to those in England. "Until we take the profit out of drugs, I do not see how we will get anywhere," he said.

Garbage Dump Likely to Spark Legal Action by Sidney Group

SIDNEY—Protests against a "cut and cover" garbage dump here likely will result in formation of a ratepayers' association and legal action to have the dump closed.

J. G. Mitchell, Sidney businessman, arranged for Dr. A. N. Beattie, Saanich and South Vancouver Island medical health officer, and G. Henderson Watts, sanitary inspector, to view the dump Wednesday, but the two officials declared it was not a health menace.

The dump consists of a trench between clay banks, that eventually will be filled with garbage then covered with the material originally removed from the trench. The site is a swamp close to the sea, however, and the trench is full of water. As a result, the garbage cannot be covered.

Dr. Beattie said the dump is operated by the municipality, on a site approved by the health department.

"They haven't been able to get to the stage of covering yet because we have had so much wet weather, and that has given rise to complaints," he said.

Mr. Mitchell said that if a ratepayers' association is formed, it might seek an injunction against the operation of the dump.

"In three months the dump has been operating, rats have begun to multiply in the area," Mr. Mitchell said. "Right now, when the water is disturbed the stench is terrific, and it will be worse in the summer. The problem of flies will be bad, too."

At present most of the garbage is afloat, and seagulls swarm over the dump. "No one minded the old dump just north of here, because it had been there for years and people just did not build near it," said T. L. Clark, who lives on the waterfront beside the dump. "Our objection is that this dump was established close to a built-up area, and that people with homes near by have been penalized."

The village commission hopes to see the swamp reclaimed eventually and turned into park land.

rests of vagrants—304 in Ottawa, to 133 in Vancouver.

Toronto, with about one and three-quarter times the population, registered six times Vancouver's vagrancy arrests.

"There is no reason to suppose those living in Vancouver, or Victoria (which had 18 convictions or vagrancy charges in 1954) to be more industrious than the citizens of Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto or Winnipeg, nor that there is less employment to be had in those cities than in B.C.," said Tupper.

"The conclusion is inescapable that the Vancouver constabulary on his beat is lax in the enforcement of the provisions of the Criminal Code against vagrancy."

PROSTITUTION: "Several witnesses at this inquiry said the bawdy house is a thing of the past, and the so-called 'call-girl' system defies prosecution, because of the difficulty in securing evidence of payment."

"There is no plain case of laxity in enforcing the provisions of the Criminal Code here; but when in a city of close to 400,000 people but five of these cases (three cases of keeping a disorderly house, two of being found-ins) and 176 cases of solicitation—the latter being no doubt partly the work of the constable on the beat—arose in 19 months, there is a strong inference that an undermanned detective division has abandoned a difficult problem."

The period referred to by Tupper was from January, 1954, to July 31, 1955.

"It may be said that without the detective-constable and his 10 detectives on the morality squad bawdy houses would open once more, but whatever their preventive value is, they have no reason for pride over their attack on prostitution," said the commissioner.

GAMBLING: "It does appear that this crime is under control in Vancouver and has been so for the past four years," said Tupper.

He said the "bookie conspiracy trial" of 1951 did much to destroy "what heretofore had been a flourishing illegal business."

The extent to which police action had smashed the book-making and gambling rackets was shown by the following figures: In the four years from 1947 to 1951, there were 6,277 arrests; and in the four years from 1951 to 1955, there were 606 arrests.

Tupper criticized the gambling detail.

"There appears to be little direction of the gambling squad from senior police officers in the force, nor any planned attack by the detective force upon betting and gambling," he said.

"The detective-constable was without experience in his duties, and learned them from a squad who had themselves been green six months before his appointment."

He said the sergeant's morning injunction to his squad was to "go out and get me a gaming house-keeper."

DRUGS: This is the only department in which Tupper commended the squad, but his commendation was tempered with a recommendation that more men be added.

"The drug problem can be controlled if, and only if, sufficient manpower is available. As so often occurred in the evidence before the inquiry, the superintendent (of police) wrote 'due to the demands of manpower elsewhere, it was not feasible to keep these men working on drugs.'"

Said Tupper: "No matter where one strikes, this note is heard." He quoted testimony from veteran drug detail men to illustrate the nature of the narcotics problem; how men must often maintain a 24-hour watch on addicts in order to obtain evidence.

CHANGES DESIRABLE

Tupper said his interim report was brought down before conclusion of the commission because a new chief of police has been appointed; changes in the Vancouver charter are desirable (and can only be made by the Legislature, which is now sitting); and third, that the police budget will, shortly be set by the Vancouver city council.

In his findings, he said the interim report, and his later report on corruption, should be read as one, since:

"Police corruption arises from maladministration, and corrupt policemen will not well enforce the law."

Tupper said Vancouver police force of 718 police officers, and civilians, with 656 available for duty, and 17 vacancies beneath its authorized strength of 735, was "not enough" for the job.

BIG INCREASE

He warned that "what may well be a substantial increase" will be required to bring the force up to an efficient standard.

Part of the answer to discipliinary problems can be found in giving the board of police commissioners power to delegate the right to reprimand, or caution, to officers other than the chief constable, said the commissioner.

He recommended a program to train a cadre of officers, men prepared to take over the highest administrative position on the force. He found that punitive discipline under Mulligan "has been on the whole justly administered in the past eight years."

Tupper criticized the police commission—Magistrate Oscar Orr, Judge Ray Sargent, and then Mayor Charles Thompson—"erred" in "a matter of great consequence and difficulty in 1949 and 1950."

"This was a reference to the Parsloe report. It resulted from a disclosure by Detective-Sergeant Robert Leatherdale, a veteran of 20 years' service, that there was talk of "fixing" and bribes in the police force.

The commission handed the matter over to the mayor, who hired a former RCMP investigator, Terry Parsloe, to make an undercover inquiry.

Said Tupper: "Parsloe's report (which acquitted Mulligan of any possibility of being engaged in corruption) was inept and valueless."

The commissioner recommended the addition of one more member to the three-man Vancouver Police Commission.

TORONTO (CP)—Trustees of the J. E. Atkinson estate said today six offers to buy the Toronto Star have been turned down. They announced they are not contemplating at present sale of The Star to "outside interests."

They denied Wednesday's report in Variety, New York weekly of the entertainment world, which said it was "likely" The Star would be sold to Toronto industrialist E. P. Taylor for $23,000,000.

that the Ontario Charitable Gifts Act has not yet been "in Star Weekly through the will of the late Mr. Atkinson. The act requires that at least 90 per cent of these assets be sold by April 8, 1956.

The act, given royal assent on April 8, 1949, contains a requirement that no charitable foundation may hold more than 10 per cent of the capital of any company.

HOW TO GET DOWN UNDER?

Australia is 8,000 miles and $1,000 away as far as Pam Edens is concerned. The outstanding young grass hockey player has been named to Canada's representative team which plays in the

Pam 'Terribly Thrilled' But Trip Still a Dream

IT'S MY VIEW
BY
Bill Walker

Bounding down hockey's boulevard... or, if lacrosse is your addiction, here's the thought for today:

What, just what, were coach-elect Whitey Severson and former coach Arnold Ferguson talking about when they cornered Jack Bonness of the Seattle Americans in the dingy recesses of the darkest foyer of Memorial Arena Tuesday night?

We'll give you a hint. There's a place in Victoria, the story goes, that will pay workers two bucks an hour during the summer months. Jack, being a hockey player, may be idle this summer!

QUOTABLE QUOTE DEPT: General manager Lynn Patrick of the Boston Bruins: after watching the Cougars: "Some of those guys are playing better than some of my guys."

Brandon to Acquire Ex-Curler?

When Doug Bentley was asked what he was going to do now that he has waived further interest in hockey at Saskatoon, he said I'm going curling for a week or so.

When the same subject was discussed in Brandon, interested parties suggested that when Bentley's rest period has expired, the Regals may acquire an ex-curler.

Of course there's one thing about Doug Bentley that sets him apart from other displaced persons in the puck world. Doug said it himself:

"Really, you know, I don't have to worry."

Speaking of Western League all-stars, the consensus is that the goalie's spot is between Vancouver's Ray Mikulan and Victoria's Marcel Pelletier. Off his recent trip to the prairies, Marcel should have, and seemingly did, pick up more than one or two votes.

On the same score, Victoria's Colin Kilburn is the leading goal scorer among left wingers, but try and convince Edmonton sages that he's better than Billy Dea, or Winnipeg experts that he deserves the nod over Eddie Mazur. What these fellows forget is that Kilburn kills penalties, too, and if there's a better defensive combination in this regard than Kilburn and Anderson of the locals, we didn't see it.

Rangers' Man Behind the Scene

Muzz Patrick of the New York Rangers is more than pleased with the work of Lou Fontinato this year; Lou's the color. Muzz admits that, but just as quickly he also pays tribute to a fellow whose name rarely appears in the scoring summary. The chap who has made Lou look good is his partner on defence, Harry Howell.

Strictly private (for Air Force types only)—No fellows, confirmed report is that he married an army type (the traitor), and now serves four little Alices. Incidentally, the Brandon rink is the old Manning depot building, the barracks having been turned into a winter fair building and curling rink.

And Everything Was So Neat Too

DISA AND DATA—Everything was in order for the opening of the Winnipeg Arena this fall... a near capacity crowd of 9,673 (a league record) was due. Then came the rush call for the carpenters... in all the hustle and bustle, someone had neglected to install playing glass in the retaining wall.

There are left wingers, and there is Ted Lindsay of the Detroit Red Wings, but if Muzz Patrick had to pick his choice for all-star would be Nick Mickoski. Lynn would give the berth to Red Kelly. Together their vote for the best all-rounder in the NHL is Gordie Howe "who can do everything." Brandon may play their postponed game with New Westminster, not at Brandon, nor Westminster, but at Nanaimo. So says coach Frank Boucher.

Bays in Second Win, Lead Prep Soccer Race

Oak Bay High School racked up its second straight shutout of the young inter-high soccer league schedule Wednesday by blanking Mt. Douglas, 2-0, at Reynolds Road Park.

The win put Oak Bay in first place in the five-team loop, two points ahead of defending champion Victoria High, which won its opening game over Mount View High, 3-0.

Jay Contain opened the scoring for Oak Bay 10 minutes into the first half, and Bill Mossie completed the scoring midway through the second half.

Lance Rutherford led Vic High to victory, with goals at 20 minutes of the first and second halves. Otto Chueden connected with five minutes remaining in the game for Vic High's final tally.

CANADIAN BID PROPOSED BY DAWES

Vancouver To Get '64 Olympics?

ALL-OUT EFFORT NEEDED

CORTINA d'AMPEZZO, Italy (CP)—Sydney Dawes, president of the Canadian Olympic committee, says Canada "has an excellent chance" to get the Olympic Games in the summer of 1964 if she really goes after them.

"Delegates are continually coming up to me and asking why Canada doesn't bid for the games," Dawes said in an interview Wednesday night.

He suggested Toronto or Vancouver as possible sites. "Toronto made a bid for the games when Mayor Allan Lamport was in office but I haven't heard much from the city since. It would be the ideal site if the city is fully behind the games."

"Vancouver is another excellent site. The people in British Columbia did a magnificent job for the British Empire Games in 1954 and I know they would be fully capable of duplicating the job for the Olympics."

With the 1960 Games already allotted to Rome, Dawes was confident European countries would welcome a bid from the dominion.

"But Canada would have to convince the Olympic officials she really would buckle down to the job," he added. "It would have to be an all-out effort."

The Canadian Olympic chief said Vancouver would be the most likely site should the winter games ever be staged in Canada.

He said the Laurentians fall short, while Banff, Alta., lacks the necessary accommodations and was too far from the areas of concentrated population.

"Vancouver has both population and ski sites," he said. "All they need is to build up an interest in staging the Games."

Dawes added that the selection of Squaw Valley, Calif., for the 1960 winter Olympics was a "wonderful break" for Canada since "it will cut down travelling expenses and allow us to send a bigger team."

FARMERS NEED WIN OR SEASON FINISHED

Farmer Construction must pull a win out of the fire tonight or forget about basketball until next season.

Farmers, who finished second in the Senior B League standings, met Drake Hotel tonight at Central Junior High School in the second game of a best-of-three semi-final, with Drakes holding the upper hand in the qualifying series.

Drakes upset Farmers, 51-43, Tuesday night in the series opener and can move into the final against league champion Dickinson & Dunn by duplicating the win tonight.

Dickinson & Dunn tonight will meet Duncan in an exhibition game at 8 with Farmers and Drakes meeting at 9.

Chores Tougher For Champs Now

All three sets of defending doubles champions will go on parade against thorny opposition tonight as competition gets stiffer in the Victoria City Badminton Championships.

At 7 tonight at Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club, the defending men's partnership of Eric Hibbertson and Len Tolson will put their title on the line against the young pairing of Bob Hunt and Ron Simmons.

Defending women's champions Muriel Knott and Joyce MacDonald go up against Jo Crampdon and B. Ford at 7.30 while at 8.30, George Lane and Joyce MacDonald will be out to protect their mixed doubles championship against the challenge of Muriel Knott and Bob Macmurchie.

Only one upset occurred Wednesday night and that in the women's singles division. Joyce Folbigg was the author of the upset as she defeated Jo Crampdon, after losing the first set. Set scores were 1-11, 11-6.

Warriors Friendly To Cougar Cause

Blank Canucks, Amerks Bow To Royals

Westminster 6, Seattle 2
Winnipeg 3, Vancouver 0

Winnipeg Warriors have given Victoria Cougars a big lift while helping their own cause.

Warriors Wednesday night blanked Vancouver Canucks, Western Hockey League western division leaders, 3-0, while New Westminster Royals were thumping Seattle Americans, 6-2, at New Westminster.

The Vancouver defeat, its second on the prairies, has enabled the Cougars to pick up a game while retaining its second-place position, five points behind the western kings.

Cougars meet Saskatoon Quakers here Friday night and, with a victory, combined with a Vancouver loss to Brandon, could shave the difference between themselves and the Canucks to three points.

Winnipeg, meanwhile, moved to within three points of the eastern divisional leaders, Calgary Stampeders.

Barry Cullen scored two goals for Warriors and Mike Nykoluk the other. All goals came in the first period before 6:40 fans.

NO FIGHTS
The Americans in losing to the Royals, accomplished something notable for them. For the first time in several games, they didn't get involved in any brawls.

Short two men, with defencemen Pat Coburn and Pete Durham under suspension, the Americans rallied the Royals to a three-goal lead, rallied to a 3-2 deficit, and then collapsed completely as the Royals rammed home three counters late in the third period.

Gord Fashaway scored twice for Royals, Blinky Boyce, Max McNabb, Bob Bergeron and Bobby Love netted the others. Alex Kuzma and Rudy Elion tallied for the Americans.

Royals and Americans now are tied for third place in the western division, nine points behind the Cougars.

STRESSER SIDELINED
On the Cougar front, injury has struck the team.

Rookie Paul Strasser was hit in the eye with a puck at practice Wednesday and likely will be lost to the club for a week or 10 days. It is not known if a replacement will be available for the club's week-end games.

Cougars travelling to Seattle for a double date with Americans, Saturday and Sunday.

Quakers will be strengthened for their Friday game here by the addition of Bones Raleigh and Bill McCreery from Providence of the AHL.

WHAT'S THIS? REFEREE PICKS CANADA!

CORTINA d'AMPEZZO, Italy (CP)—An Olympic hockey referee who played on a Canadian championship team in the 1948 games says Russia will be lucky to finish in the first three in this year's tournament.

FO Louis Lecompte of Ottawa, one of 25 referees selected to handle this year's games, said in an interview Wednesday that he picks Canada's Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen to win the title with Czechoslovakia and the United States finishing ahead of Russia.

Campanella Gets Hike To $38,000

BROOKLYN (AP)—Roy Campanella, Brooklyn's three-time winner of the most valuable player award of the National League, Wednesday signed his 1956 contract for an estimated $38,000.

The stocky Dodger catcher, who made a tremendous comeback last season, was understood to have received a $5,000 pay increase. The Dodgers declined, as usual, to disclose any figures.

Campy hit .318 last year, clouting 32 homers and driving in 107 runs. The year before, when a hand injury hampered him at bat, he hit only .207, with 19 homers and 51 runs batted in.

Torch Wavers As Games Open

CORTINA d'AMPEZZO, Italy (CP)—The greatest winter sports spectacle in history—the seventh winter Olympic Games—opened today with dazzling pageantry as 1,100 athletes from 32 countries paraded in brilliantly colored attire in bright sunshine.

The only flaw in the magnificent ceremonies in the packed stadium was the stumble of torch-bearer Guido Caroli of Italy.

Skating in with the torch to light the Olympic flame, the Italian fell headlong in front of the presidential box when he tripped on microphone wires.

Somewhat, he held on to the torch, and hastily regaining his feet, he completed the circuit of the stands and ignited the bowl which will burn day and night until the games end Feb. 5. A huge roar came from the crowd as the flame flared up.

NOT ENOUGH SNOW
The temperature was at the freezing point, but there wasn't the faintest sign of a snow cloud—and snow is the one thing these Olympics need most.

The Canadian contingent received an ovation from the crowds as they marched to the stadium.

"Canada, Canada, Canada," shouted the crowds as the Canadians marched smartly through the flag-draped streets, their colorful togues bobbing.

Seventh among the 32 countries in the parade, the Canadians had an opportunity to witness the arrival of the greater part of the 1,100 athletes. Several slipped from their assigned position on the huge ice surface to take photographs.

THE SCOREBOARD BY Harry Grayson

NEW YORK (NEA)—Stan Hack wanted to put some life in the Cubs, so the manager sent for the guy who has done nothing but stir it up in baseball since he broke into the organized game as a kid 32 years ago.

It is exciting even to know that Johnny Leonard Martin will coach the Chicago Nationals. The Wrighleys will be very exciting if any part of Pepper Martin's tremendous enthusiasm rubs off on them. And Martin, now 52, will regale baseball writers with matchless stories while refueling the Bruins with dash and fire. Like Jimmy Durante, the Old Wild Hoss of the Osage has a million of 'em. He not only lends himself to good yarns, but doesn't hesitate to make them up.

As ringleader of the swashbuckling St. Louis Gashouse Gang from 1931 to '40, Martin entertained their nation-wide following from the time he arrived at the Bradenton, Fla., training camp until the last shot was fired.

Tops in the Music League, Too

Pepper drove from Oklahoma in a station wagon loaded with guns, fishing tackle and new instruments for his Mississippi Mudcat, a bizarre band which featured such accomplished musicians as Fiddler Bill McGee, Lon Warneke, Rip Collins, Frenchy Bordagaray and Bob Welland.

There never was a dull moment on or off the field. No one ever had a more spectacular World Series than did Martin breaking in as a Red Bird regular in 1931, when he practically beat the vaunted Athletics single-handed, batting .500 in seven games and stealing five bases on his own. That performance inspired lyrics. Martin was a centre fielder in his biggest series. When he got into another one in 1934, he was a third baseman fielding the ball with his chest.

There never was a more down-to-earth ballplayer than Martin. An immaculate uniform was covered with dirt five minutes after he put it on.

Pepper no-doubt is the reason why ground crews now drag the infield after the seventh inning. Rounding first base and then putting on the brakes when he saw he couldn't go for two, Pepper dug big holes on the basepaths. His famous belly slides left ditches.

Always Surrounded By Color

No outfielder collided with Martin in attempting to catch a fly. Outfielders could feel the earth shake when he was coming. Once one of his shoes flew off and hit Rip Collins, playing right field that afternoon, on the head.

Martin kept in the headlines while managing in the minors. In Sacramento, his bedroom was a sleeping bag in the grandstand. While managing Miami of the Florida International League, he choked an umpire and poked an abusive bleacher fan on the nose.

Martin perhaps was happiest of all while in charge of a mass sliding pit at the Brooklyn training camp hard by Vero Beach while the Dodgers were supplying the Miami Sun Sox with talent.

The leathery-faced Martin beamed as 700 young players hit and churned the sawdust.

Pepper Martin would have stayed there all night.

Greenberg, Cronin Enter Hall of Fame

NEW YORK (AP)—Hank Greenberg and Joe Cronin, two of the best right-handed hitters of the modern age, were elected to baseball's Hall of Fame at Cooperstown, N.Y., Wednesday by the 10-year members of the Baseball Writers Association.

Greenberg is general manager of the Cleveland Indians and Cronin is general manager of the Boston Red Sox, both in the American League where they spent most of their brilliant major careers.

A total of 193 ballots were received from the eligible writers, with Greenberg earning 164 votes and Cronin 152. A total of 145, three-fourths of those cast, was necessary for election. Only players active in the 1930-50 period were eligible for recognition and they could not be active as a coach or manager within the last five years.

Red Ruffing, a key pitcher on many New York Yankee pennant winners, was third with 97 votes. Then came Ed Rush, former Cincinnati outfielder, with 91.

TIME OUT!

By JEFF KEATE

"No doubt about it, fans... State's sharpshooters are way off tonight!"

Belair Stud Sales Show Big Profit

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The breaking up of the great Belair Stud farm racing stable, completed Monday, created enormous profit for those who bought groups of horses from the estate of the owner, the late William Woodward, Jr.

Sixty-one head, bought in two separate deals for $615,000, brought a total of $1,225,400 when 59 of them were sold in public auctions.

John S. Koresse, a Teaneck, N.J., businessman who owns a stable, sold 19 Belair horses for $301,300 Wednesday. He had originally bought 21 head for $205,000 but kept two fillies for breeding.

His profit of $96,300, however, was far short of that made by Mildred Woolwine, Lexington, Ky., and her associates.

They bought 24 broodmares and 18 yearlings for $410,000, auctioned them at Lexington in January for a record price of $1,251,200 in a separate deal.

Nashua, the four-year-old son of Nasrullah now is at Hialeah Park here, preparing for the $100,000 Widener Handicap on Feb. 18. He was bought by a syndicate headed by Leslie Combs II of Lexington.

Strathconas Plan Exhibition Games

Victoria Strathconas of the Coast Soccer League have called off their scheduled practice at Athletic Park tonight, but will keep busy over the weekend with exhibition games against a Victoria and District Football Association team at 2 Saturday at Reynolds Road Park, and against a Dundan team in Duncan at 2 on Sunday.

GRID PEACE AT A PRICE

TORONTO (CP)—The Globe and Mail says peace between the National Football League and the Canadian Football Council may be contingent on Toronto Argonauts returning three import stars to American clubs.

The players are quarterback Tom Dublinski, formerly of Detroit Lions, and linemen Billy Shipp and Bill Albright, formerly of New York Giants.

Gil Gets Chance Makes It Stick

Toronto 3, Chicago 1

By The Canadian Press

Gil Mayer waited seven years to declare squatter's rights in the National Hockey League. Now he has his chance.

Mayer, a pint-sized goaltender who seemed destined for near-obscure in the minors until big Harry Lumley pulled a thigh muscle, stepped into the nets for Toronto Maple Leafs Wednesday night.

He was good but not sensational. That's because he didn't have too much work as Leafs battled to a 3-1 victory over Chicago Black Hawks.

It was the only game of the night and was the start of Mayer's big chance to show Leafs he should stay in NHL company and not with Pittsburgh Hornets in the American Hockey League. Gil, a five-foot-six 162-pounder, is subbing for Lumley, who was hurt in Detroit last Sunday and will be out for a couple of weeks.

"This is my first real chance to show something in the NHL," the 25-year-old Mayer said before the game. "I'm no different from any other player in the American League. I want to stay up. I've waited almost seven years for the chance."

SULLIVAN BEATS HIM
Mayer stopped 19 Chicago drives before the 12,828 fans at Toronto, eight in the first period, eight in the second and three in the third.

The one that got past him came in the first period when Chicago's Red Sullivan tipped in a goalmouth pass from left winger Harry Watson at 12:35. Leafs broke out in the third period for their goals. First it was George Armstrong, then Tod Sloan—who got his 28th of the season—and then Ron Stewart.

Sloan Third In NHL Race

(By The Canadian Press)

Tod Sloan of Toronto scored his 29th goal of the season and picked up an assist in Wednesday night's single National Hockey League game to vault into third place from sixth position in the individual scoring race.

Ballet Russe Delights, Disappoints; Principals Excel, Corps Work 'Uneven'

BY AUDREY ST.D. JOHNSON

For balletomanes, Wednesday's one-day, double-performance visit of the long absent Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo, had some rewards and one or two major disappointments.

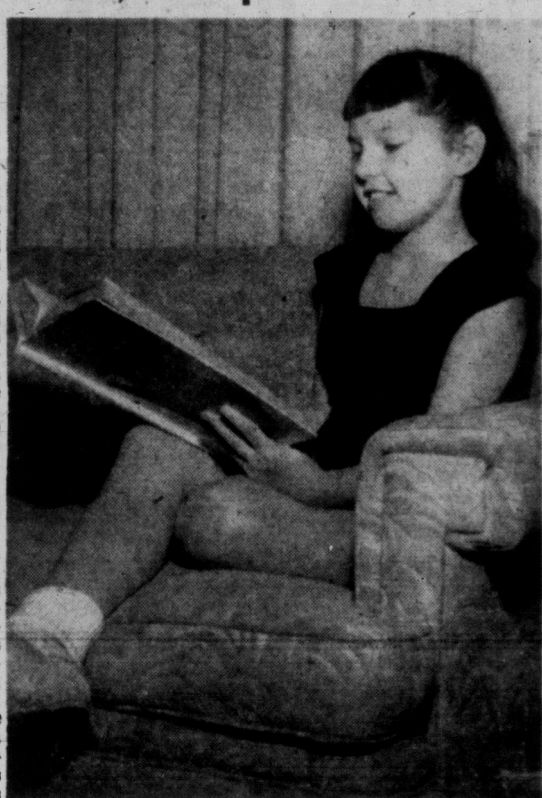

The latter arose principally in the classic numbers and rest upon the shoulders of the corps de ballet. It would be difficult to find fault with the large and excellent group of soloists, both male and female.

To get the gripes over quickly, "Swan Lake" which opened the afternoon's program, was marred by an uneven, faulty corps de ballet and hideous knee-length tutus. As for the famous pas de quatre, it has been done more cleanly and gracefully by local amateurs.

INEXPRESSIVE
"Les Sylphides" in the evening was a little better, but the lack of delicacy and "esprit" was still in evidence.

Gertrude Tyven, however, dancing the swan queen, was technically excellent if somewhat inexpressive. Alan Howard, who danced the male roles in both these classic white ballets, shows excellent form and feeling for the romantic spirit. It is seldom that the entire "Nutcracker" is danced by a visiting company and after seeing it Wednesday afternoon this is understandable as it requires three complete sets.

The pure beauty of Nina Novak's performance as the Snow

LINDA LAMBIE... budding ballerina.

Queen and the Sugar Plum Fairy brought a rare atmosphere to the number as a whole. Frederick Franklin was her partner, once more emphasizing his unique excellence, both technically and in the matter of style.

Small budding ballerina, Linda Lambie of Victoria, played her part with grace and the composure of a professional, so enthralled in her character as the little girl who is taken to the palace of sweets that she was loath to take her share of curtain calls.

One of the most delightful rewards of either program was the "Mikado." Decor and costumes were in perfect harmony, inspiration for which was obviously taken from a Japanese color print.

"Harold in Italy," had choreography by Massine, music by Berlioz and a story based on Byron's epic poem, "Childe Harold." There were wonderful and effective contrasts of mood in this piece from pastoral lyricism in the dancing of Borowska and Howard, to the wild, orgiastic effect of the brigands and their captives.

Igor Youskevitch, though seen only briefly, is one has de deux, the Black Swan, was a breathtaking and dominant figure, both as to marvels of elevation and other brilliant feats, and that particular inward fire that only the great possess.

BRAVURA PIECE
This is strictly a bravura piece for two soloists who are at the very peak of their art. To say that Nina Novak was a challenging figure and a thrilling match for the incomparable Youskevitch, is to acclaim her indeed.

Among performances both satisfying and memorable must be recorded those of Gertrude Tyven in the tuneful, vivid "Gaiete Parisienne," Joseph Savino as "Nanki-Poo" and the arresting characterization of Terry DiMari as the Simpleton in "Harold in Italy."

By PHIL LEE

AA (Oscar Class) BB (Worthwhile)
A (Don't Miss) B (For Rainy Days)
C (To put in time)

(OSCAR CLASS) "GUYS AND DOLLS" (Odeon)—In "Guys and Dolls" Samuel Goldwyn and MGM have the gayest, rowdiest, funniest, funniest musical of 1955.

Although it isn't necessary to have read the marvelous stories of the late Damon Runyon to enjoy "Guys and Dolls," it certainly helps to bring alive the weird, under-world characters like Nicely Nicely, Nathan Detroit, Harry the Horse and Angie the Ox. It also helps to understand Runyon's priceless dialogue full of first-personisms and crazy phrases.

The story (and it's a good one for a musical) in brief:

It just so happens that Nathan Detroit (Frank Sinatra) needs a fast G more than somewhat so he can rent suitable premises in which to hold his floating crap game. Knowing that Sky Masterson (Marion Brando) is a sucker for a wager he bets him a grand that he cannot induce Sister Sarah Brown (Jean Simmons), a doll who works for the Save-A-Soul Mission to accompany him to Havana within the next 24 hours. Sky wins the G after he woos Sister Sarah away with the promise of supplying the mission with 12 of the "Devil's" first-string troops for an important mission meeting Saturday night.

THERE ARE SOME weaknesses in "Guys and Dolls" which anyone with half-an-ear for music will note. Brando's singing voice is small and a trifle flat while Miss Simmons is hardly operatic. But what they lack here they make up for elsewhere.

Certainly Brando's hopped-up dance in a Havana night club is out of this world and a wonderful treat after his hard-boiled roles. And the way Miss Simmons bumps and grinds herself about under the influence of what she thinks is milk turns out to be the happiest screen lack in ages.

BUT WHEN THE CHIPS are down it is Broadway musical comedy star Vivian Blaine who contributes most to "Guys and Dolls." She's a dilly of a doll with a voice more than somewhat brassy. Theatre-goers will not soon forget her doing "Take Back Your Mink" and a number of other of the show's hit tunes. Others of the original Broadway cast are Stubby Kaye and B. S. Pully who help keep the Runyonese flavor intact. And, lastly, Mr. Sinatra improves upon his amazing record once again. As the guy who has been engaged to Vivian for 14 years and suddenly discovers he is the father of five, he is excellent.

Wider Compensation Asked for Fishermen

CCF member for New Westminster, Rae Eddie, Wednesday urged extension of the Workmen's Compensation Act to include all commercial fishermen.

He told the Legislature the present arrangement, a voluntary coverage scheme, was not satisfactory. Only one-sixth of commercial fishermen, 1,277, had taken advantage of the act, he said, and labor minister Lyle Wicks had indicated he was willing to broaden the scope of benefits after the "trial" voluntary operation.

He asked also for legislation which would eliminate the present "barbaric" methods used in slaughter-house killings. All animals should first be stunned, he said, this would even increase efficiency of handling.

Mr. Eddie advocated allowable earnings for recipients of aged pensions be set at $1,000 for single and $1,500 for married persons.

ST. ANN'S SISTER-SACRISTAN, EARLY YUKON WORKER, DIES

For the past 25 years sister-sacristan and catechist at St. Ann's Academy here, Sister Mary Coeur de Jesus, died Wednesday in St. Joseph's Hospital, aged 79.

She was born Mary Anne Goulet and entered the order of the Sisters of St. Anne in Lachine, Quebec, in 1895.

In 1900 she was assigned to Dawson City and for six years helped care for miners in hospital there. Then she went with three other sisters to establish a hospital in the new town of Fairbanks, Alaska. Until 1931 she taught and cared for Eskimo and Indian children at the missions of Holy Cross and Nulato, in the lower Yukon and Nulato river areas.

Capt. Pullen Named To Arctic Command

A fifth generation naval officer who is a brother of Rear-Admiral Hugh F. Pullen, flag officer, Pacific Coast, has been appointed commanding officer of the Arctic patrol ship HMCS Labrador.

Capt. Thomas C. Pullen, 37, of Oakville, Ont., will succeed Capt. Owen C. S. Robertson, former Victoria man, who commanded Labrador in 1954, and commanded her through two Arctic voyages.

Last October Capt. Robertson became seriously ill and was evacuated from the Arctic for hospital treatment while his executive officer, Cmdr. John Leeming of Victoria, took temporary command of the ship. Capt. Robertson was released from hospital in November and after a convalescent period returned to active duty.

100-YEAR TRADITION

Capt. Pullen is a member of a family which has had at least one member in the navy for five generations. Two of them figured in the Belcher expedition which left England in 1851 for Arctic exploration.

They were Cmdr. (later Vice-Admiral) W. J. S. Pullen, captain of HMS North Star, and his brother, Thomas C. Pullen, second in command of the ship.

A younger brother of the North Star Pullens was Hugh Francis Pullen, paymaster, after whom the present flag officer, Pacific Coast, was named.

Born in 1918 in Oakville, Capt. Pullen entered the RCN as a cadet in 1936. He joined HMCS Assiniboine shortly after the outbreak of the Second World War, and was executive officer of HMCS Ottawa when she was sunk in September, 1942. After serving in many ship and shore establishments, including command Canadian Destroyers Far East, he was appointed director of naval gunnery at headquarters.

ERROR PROVES PEOPLE STILL ENJOYING RADIO

Despite the tremendous boom in television in the Victoria district, plenty of people still listen to their radios.

The Times got conclusive proof of this Tuesday evening when, through an error, it repeated Monday's radio programs.

Soon after the papers had reached Victoria homes the phone calls started to come; they continued until after 10 p.m. Some of the callers just wanted to draw The Times' attention to the error, others asked for, and got, detailed information on the night programs.

A surprisingly large number of enquiries came from sick people confined to their homes whose sole source of amusement, they said, was their radio.

Mothers to March Feb. 18 To Aid B.C. Polio Fund

Two thousand Victoria mothers treatment in the polio wing of Jubilee Hospital.

The fund, sponsored by Kinsmen clubs in the province, has set $225,000 as its objective in 1956. Officials say costs of treating polio victims and rehabilitation cases rose last year because the disease hit a higher age group.

Polio is no longer a children's affliction; average age of victims in 1955 was 32 years.

Actual incidence of cases on the Island last year was higher than in 1954, although Victoria city remained constant with a total of 29. Nanaimo, with 26, was almost faced with an epidemic.

Total number of polio cases on Vancouver Island was 69, many of whom were brought to Victoria for

Natural Gas Appeal Judgment Friday

The B.C. Court of Appeal will render judgment Friday on an application of three Fraser Valley municipalities for the complete right to run natural gas lines in their municipalities.

Chilliwack City and the municipalities of Chilliwack and Surrey in their action claim the P.U.C. Commission giving the B.C. Electric Co. the complete right to run natural gas lines in their municipalities.

The Public Utilities Commission granted the certificate to the B.C. Electric to allow it to set up a valley-wide distribution system for natural gas.

If leave to appeal is granted the municipalities will argue that no certificate should become effective until the voters have decided on who shall have the franchise on municipal gas lines.

Veeck Back In Baseball At Miami

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Flamboyant Bill Veeck, former major league president, returned to baseball here today as general manager and part owner of the new Miami International League baseball club.

Veeck heads a Miami syndicate which Monday bought the Syracuse IL franchise for $100,000. A last-minute drive to secure interests failed to get the franchise for that club.

Veeck is expected soon to assume "ownership" of the team, reported to be a major part of the club.

Burns Nicht a'Richt But No Like It Was

At least one old-timer celebrating Scottish poet-reformer Robert Burns' birthday Wednesday night harkened back to older times when the affair was all-male, wetter and longer.

He sat waiting for his dinner at Victoria Burns Club 34th annual banquet at St. John's Church Hall. Reminiscing, he looked back to Aberdeen when his ancestors attended Burns suppers that were counted failures unless they lasted all night.

"Burns nicht used t' be an occasion for th' men t' gathurr ith a fair measure o' beer an' whuskey. An' there were nae women about."

"Discussion was on a vera verra high level—all politics, an' your common laborer, he knew what was goin' on."

And for emphasis he added: "I 1707, when th' twa parliaments joined (Scottish and English)—separate they should ha'e stayed, th' Highland mon would ask 'is English friends t' vote th' way he want' an' th' English would ask th' Scot'."

And on pastoral celebration of Burns' birthday, once more: "O' course, several o' th' men might slip quietly down underr th' table, an' 'twas liable t' last until about six o'clock 'n th' morn'. There'd be some singin' o' Burns' sangs, too."

WELL ENJOYED

Nonetheless, the 130-odd club members who Wednesday night feasted on bubbly jock (wi' stuffing), royal Scotch haggis, ait cakes, scones (hame baked), kebbuck an' trimlin tam (wi' whuppit cream), appeared well satisfied with today's form of remembrance.

Rev. G. H. Glover, toasting the immortal memory of Scotland's bard, stressed that "life is not measured by the number of years lived, but what is put into those years."

Robert Burns, while he lived only from 1759-1796, put in so much that he is held in higher regard 160 years after his death than when he lived. He "hand-ed out inspiration."

Haggis was carried by James MacMillan, piped by Piper John Low and addressed by Rev. T. H. McAllister. Songs and accompaniment were provided by Mrs. Catherine Packford, John Bell, Mrs. Ruth Tait, John Bray and Mrs. E. A. Cartwright.

Chairman was club president John MacKay, toast to the lassies was by D. Bainave, reply by Mrs. James R. Marrs, and remarks by Duncan MacBride.

Man Sent to Trial For Automotive Wife-Killing Try

CRANBROOK, B.C. (CP) — William Filpichuk Wednesday was committed for assize court trial on a charge of attempted murder of his wife.

He will be tried in May. Filpichuk is charged with attempting to run over his wife while she was walking with another man on Jan. 8.

Chief witness Julius Kiss said at the preliminary hearing he and Mrs. Filpichuk were walking in the late afternoon when a car approached them from behind.

He managed to jump aside, he told the court, but was unable to pull Mrs. Filpichuk from the path of the car. She was struck by the left front fender and suffered bruised legs.

MONTE ROBERTS

Those of you who have been worrying about our modern system of education can now stop worrying.

There is nothing wrong with our modern system of education when it produces such intelligent and stalwart characters as John M. Gilliland, 840 Richmond avenue, who is a student at Victoria High.

Not only is Mr. Gilliland a keen student, he is keenly aware of the problems facing us today, as this letter fully attests:

Dear Sir:

I write to inform you of a dire situation. A close relative of the Floggel, the googol, has been so unfortunate as to have penetrated into the realm of higher mathematics! "The Mathematics Teacher," a magazine for mathematics teachers, defines the googol as the one hundredth power of ten. (Perhaps it is equal to the one hundred and third power of ten in the United Kingdom; but no matter.)

It seems to me it is your moral duty to warn the Floggel against following its ill-fated relative into this rarefied mathematical atmosphere. If it (the Floggel) decides to emulate it (the googol), it (the Floggel) will quickly lose its general popularity and will soon be spoken of only in hushed whispers by eccentric mathematicians.

Perhaps you might feel sufficiently inspired to attempt to dissuade the googol itself from continuing along the path-way to oblivion. This would truly be a step in the right direction.

I am sure that you will both see and perform your duty in this lamentable matter; that you, with a glad cry of "Salvation and Preservation," will throw yourself gallantly into the fray. At least I hope you will.

Yours faithfully,

JOHN M. GILLILAND (confirmed Floggel-lover.)

I am taking the problem under advisement, Mr. Gilliland. Meanwhile, Floggel and the world Floggels with you; googol, and you googol alone.

A word or two about yesterday's Between Times.

It turns out (much to my surprise) there are a few constituents not fully conversant with Chnook.

For their benefit, the Indian legend related here yesterday dealt with three characters who met in a frying pan and did a great deal of thinking about whether or not to jump in the fire.

At last reports, they were still thinking.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES

George Curran was named president of the Ward Four Liberal Association at the annual meeting Thursday.

Ernest Watson was elected vice-president, and Hugh Ramsay secretary. Treasurer is Mrs. I. Finlay. George Gregory, M.L.A., was named honorary president, and Mrs. J. T. Jones, honorary vice-president. She was president last year.

A reminder to motorists—It's 1 p.m. not noon on Wednesday when parking meters become harmless. The bylaw passed by council recently makes it unnecessary to pay meter fees after shop hours Wednesday. But it sets the hour at 1 p.m. Many motorists have received tickets for leaving their cars in metered spaces before 1 p.m. and not depositing a coin.

A minor leak which developed in the freezing system of Memorial Arena floor was repaired by city workmen Wednesday night. Afternoon skating was not affected and minor hockey and Victoria Cougars practices took place as scheduled today.

Having two spotlights mounted on the front of an auto is illegal, even if one of the lights is not in working order, a young Saanich man found in city police court today. Magistrate Henry C. Hall fined Peter P. Walker, 4081 Wilkinson, $10 or three days in jail on a charge of having more than one light mounted on his car.

Police said the accused ignored a 48-hour warning period to remove one light. Walker said one spotlight was not in operating order.

Advised that drunkometer findings are now accepted in court as evidence to clear or convict the intoxicated driver, Victoria police officials have asked $450 be included in the 1956 budget to purchase one. Chief John Blackstock made a similar request last year but it was dropped when the budget was reduced.

Victoria-Esquimalt Union Board of Health will meet Friday for preliminary budget discussions. The board is financed in its work by both municipalities.

Thirty graduates of a public speaking course jointly sponsored by Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce and the International Institute will attend a dinner meeting at McEwen's Restaurant next Monday at 6:30 p.m.

Alan Wilson will be in the chair and the guest speaker will be William McGillivray, provincial deputy minister of agriculture.

A $10 contribution was made to the Saskatchewan election campaign fund by the Marigold Social Credit Group meeting Wednesday. The meeting was at the home of H. Bown, 1268 Dunsterville.

Laurence King will speak on "The Eternal Quest" at a public meeting Sunday at 8 p.m. at 904 Government Street.

The meeting is sponsored by The Theosophical Society, Besant Lodge.

Alan James King, 504 Menzies, was fined $5 or two days in jail when he pleaded guilty in city police court today to a charge of failing to have a rear light mounted on his car.

Tenders have been called by Defence Construction Ltd. for construction of a swimming pool as an addition to the gymnasium at the Tri-Service college, Royal Roads.

Size of the project and cost will be announced after tenders close, Feb. 16.

Masters, Mates and Pilots of B.C. will hold their annual dinner and dance in Vancouver Feb. 17. Several Victoria seamen are expected to attend.

A careless driving charge brought a fine of $40 to a motorist in city police court today. Martin Angus MacDonald, 611 Vancouver, was fined $40 or five days in jail on a charge arising from a two-car accident Jan. 14 at Cook and Yates in which $785 damages resulted.

U.S., CANADIAN PRESIDENTS

Gyro Heads Get Totem Shares

The presidents of 115 Gyro Clubs in the U.S. and Canada are to become shareholders in the world's tallest totem.

William Hudson, secretary of Victoria Gyro, purchased the shares Wednesday as part of preparations for a convention of Gyro International in Victoria in 1957.

"Our president, Bill Clark, will be sending out the invitation pretty soon to all the clubs in Gyro International, stretching from the Atlantic to the Pacific on both sides of the 49th parallel," Hudson said.

"We wanted a novel way to extend our invitations—and you provided them."

"Here's what we have in mind:

"We propose to make the president of every Gyro Club on the continent a subscriber to the 'tallest totem' and in this way feel that they have a big interest in coming here next year to see the real thing. They'll come and take advantage of the privileges extended them by reason of being charter members of the tallest totem club."

"So here is a cheque for $60. This will give us 120 memberships we are going to spread throughout the length and breadth of Gyro International."

The Gyro share subscription gave a nice little fillip to the totem fund Wednesday, with the total at the day's end standing at $2,130.50.

For the convenience of those who wish to order shares by mail the form in the adjoining column is available. Share certificates may also be obtained in person at the Broad Street office of the Times or at 2631 Douglas. Share acknowledgements page 25.

FIRST 'BARK' HEARD FOR DOGWOOD EMBLEM

B.C. Legislature Wednesday gave first reading to a bill which will make the flowering dogwood the official floral emblem of British Columbia.

The white blossom of the dogwood has been considered the province's unofficial flower for many years, and holds a place of prominence on the Golden Mace of the House.

Horticultural experts chose the "Cornus Nuttallii" variety of dogwood, known commonly as the flowering dogwood, for the honor of becoming the province's first floral emblem.

Tupper Report Holds Lesson for Public

BY TOM GOULD

Royal Commissioner R. H. Tupper's interim report on the Vancouver police probe held a sober message for police, which could hold true in any Canadian city.

For over a year he served with 4 LAA Battery, Work Point, prior to which he was adjutant and instructor of Royal Canadian School of Artillery (CA) at Work Point. Victoria-born Maj. Reeves will move his family east next month.

FOLLOWS FATHER

Tweedsmuir Hooks Grilse

An unexpected link with the past awaited Lord Tweedsmuir when he went fishing Wednesday with Victoria-Chamber-of-Commerce president Pat Dunn at Brentwood.

They fished with Claude Creed in his boat the Tern. Claude produced his visitors' book and opened it at the first page.

"Your father was the first to sign this book," he told Lord Tweedsmuir. "He went fishing with my father, the late Hugh Creed, in March, 1939. It was the first time anyone went fishing in this boat."

Lord Tweedsmuir examined his father's faded signature—the one word "Tweedsmuir." He was then governor-general of Canada.

Mr. Dunn and the present Lord Tweedsmuir landed three grilse on their expedition.

"They weighed only about a pound each," Mr. Dunn reported, "but Lord Tweedsmuir was delighted with the catch."

PACIFIC AVIATION SERVICES president Geoffrey Johns demonstrates portable TV camera as Ellison Queale of Ellison Queale Radio Supply Ltd., View and Quadra looks on. Camera is costly.

YOU CAN BE WHERE YOU'RE NOT

New Portable TV Camera Has Unlimited Functions

By TONY DICKASON

Busily taking notes concerning use of the new "B-1" portable television camera, first of its kind on the coast, it came as a distinct shock to see ourselves on the TV screen across the room.

Pacific Aviation Services bought the complex camera from Ellison Queale Radio Supply Ltd., Quadra and View, and will use it with affiliated company Vancouver Island Helicopters Ltd., for research and development projects. It was on view Wednesday in Ellison Queale showrooms.

Industrial uses of the camera are numerous, and the handy screen is ideal for studying the back of your own neck.

Among applications for the camera are simplifications of work study. For example, the man responsible for operation of units in a mill, with cameras set up throughout, can check on machinery functions without leaving his office.

Several larger mills on this coast are studying use of camera along these lines.

VIHL will use the camera to monitor actual flight conditions. Monday, for the first

Run-Around By Cabinet Charged

Hospital Workers Resentful—Black

The provincial government today was accused of giving B.C. hospital workers "nothing but the run-around and procrastination."

Business agent William Black of the Hospital Employees' Federal Union, local 180, said: "We have been trying to see the cabinet since July. Finally we had to send them our brief, and we haven't even had a reply."

The brief urged withdrawal of the controversial wage freeze order sent to all B.C. hospitals on May 2, 1955, and for a commission to review B.C.H.S. "with a view to placing it on a more equitable basis, guaranteeing an efficient service to the general public, and protecting the democratic rights of hospital workers."

CONFUSION CREATED

"We feel that the issuing of this freeze order has created confusion. It has undermined the morale of all hospital workers in the province."

The union, in its brief, also denied statements by government officials that hospitals are overstaffed, the staffs overpaid, and that the average stay per patient too high.

The brief quoted figures showing comparable wage structures, and staff-to-patient statistics to back up its claims.

"Hospital employees are resentful of the insidious attack that has been made on them in the press and over the air. They have been doing a valiant job in the face of all the pressure and propaganda with which they have been confronted," said the brief.

Both Measures On Same Day

Former aldermanic candidate Hugh Ramsay today called for a "double-header vote" when Victorians go to the polls on the Point Ellice Bridge question soon.

"Settle the matter of fluoridation at the same time," he stated.

He was scheduled to present his suggestion to council at a meeting later today.

Mr. Ramsay, who was defeated by a narrow margin in his first attempt at civic politics last December indicated he will remain active in civic affairs despite his initial failure.

He said this morning council should not overlook the fact fluoridation of drinking water will be a controversial civic issue this year.

A vast public education campaign is due to be launched shortly by Junior Chamber of Commerce officials in conjunction with district health officials.

SAVE MONEY

"If this comes to a referendum, as it likely will, it would be a saving to the already overburdened taxpayer to settle it at the same time as we settle whether or not we want a new Point Ellice Bridge."

"Cost of a referendum is estimated at $500. The added cost of settling the two questions at once would be so small it would hardly be noticed. The cost would be doubled if the questions were taken separately."

Mr. Ramsay also stated having the two matters settled at the same polling would increase the vote.

GET VOTE OUT

"The bridge question would bring out those interested in the bridge. The fluoridation matter would draw those voters concerned with that question."

"This would reduce the chance of a strong minority turning out to win because of apathy of the majority."

City council was slated to give third reading to a $500,000 bridge by-law today. If passed the plans then go to the provincial government for approval before any date can be set for the plebiscite by city property holders.

The former candidate is credited with an earlier suggestion to council—which later was passed as a by-law—free Wednesday afternoon parking in metered spaces (from 1 p.m. on).

ASK THE TIMES

Q.—In an article in a paper I read that where, in Canada, statistics are kept there are 105 boy babies born for every 100 girl babies. Will you give us the number of boy babies and the number of girl babies born in British Columbia and throughout Canada in the last year?

A.—This column is informed by the vital statistics branch that for the year 1955, the most recent year for which the figures are complete and have been tabulated, there were 16,428 male births in B.C., compared with 15,318 female births, a ratio of 107.3 males to 100 females. In Canada as a whole, also during 1955, there were 215,896 male births, compared with 202,929 female births, a ratio of 106.4 males to 100 females. The federal general census of 1951 reported a total of 7,088,873 males in Canada and 6,920,556 females. There will be another federal census in June of this year.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem, along to The Times, addressed to "Ask The Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

Questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums.

Ton of Donated Clothing Sails Friday for Korea

More than a ton of donated clothing sails Friday aboard HMCS Ontario on its way to help Koreans, thanks to B.C.'s Save the Children Fund.

In a whirlwind drive for warm clothing, the fund, through Victoria representative, Mrs. W. W. McGill, has collected more than 2,100 pounds since the weekend.

The drive closed Wednesday, but items still to be picked up from points in the city will be baled in time to be shipped aboard a freighter leaving Victoria for the Orient early in February.

Mrs. McGill said special recognition should go to the Society of Friends (Quakers) for donating help and the use of its baling machine, making it "possible to send such a huge amount of clothing on such short notice."

Large parts in collecting and transporting clothes were played by Junior Red Cross groups at city schools, Wilson Motors Ltd. and Dowell's Cartage.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Tiny Sister's Doll House Has Brand New Appliances

By PENNY SAVER

The top note in modern kitchen appliances is hit by this up-to-the-minute refrigerator I was examining in town. Just press down on the small handle, and open files the door to display door shelves loaded with eggs, jars and fruit. In the refrigerator are meat shelves, trays, and a top section for frozen foods. The most amazing thing about this appliance is that it's just seven inches high! Well, of course, it's for the little girl's doll house! It's made of white enameled metal, and is just like the big one she'll find in the kitchen. The groceries that she'll find inside are small, made-to-size decal of various foods. The price? It's 98 cents.

Tans and berets, styled to set off any type of coat or suit, are one of the smartest types of hat a girl can own. Of course, some people simply don't wear them well, but, on the whole, they're a very versatile hat that nearly anyone can wear. I've told you before about the six-gored black velvet ones. Well, now there are velvet or dutch suede ones in pink, red, strawberry, cherry, brown or blue. The band is centered with a thin wire, so that you can really shape the hat to your own head. No great cost, either, 'cause they're selling for just $1.98. They're perky and smart, and can be adapted to either dressy or casual occasions.

Peasant-type blouses worthy of being worn anywhere have become favorites in many a Victoria girl's wardrobe. Long sleeved white cotton blouses with French cuffs have delicate and lovely embroidery on the sleeves, and in a deep scoop on the front. Rather than a button front, there's a fly-away collar and one-button closing at the neckline, so that the blouse is very much like a pullover. The embroidery, done by hand, is in grey, green, red or grape. A small section of smocking at the shoulder line gives these blouses a very good fit.

If you prefer short-sleeved blouses, there are delightful ones with scalloped collars, embroidered to match the button front and sleeves. You may buy them with Chinese collars, too. The price is $3.95. They were $5.95, so here's a real saving. Call me at 2-3131 and I'll tell you where to find them.

C These grey winter days, add a dash of color to any room with a gaily painted lampshade. Coat the inside of any heavy paper or cardboard shade with aluminum paint. Then paint the outside any color you like. The aluminum will reflect the light inside the shade and will prevent light shining through the brush marks on the outside.

Hospital Auxiliary Gives Supplies, Sews and Makes 26,580 Dressings

Sixty-eight active members of the Women's Auxiliary to Royal Jubilee Hospital, assisted by 119 associates have completed a successful year.

Reports given at annual meeting in the Nurses' Home, Wednesday afternoon, showed two new projects successfully undertaken and total receipts as $2,876.62.

Mrs. W. G. Thorpe presided and introduced special guests, George Masters, Dr. Murray Anderson; Mrs. H. Webster and Mrs. C. C. Warren, presidents of the hospital's junior auxiliary and the Gorge Road Hospital Auxiliary, respectively and J. Worthington and J. L. Hobbs of the hospital's board of directors.

MANY DONATIONS

Recording secretary, Mrs. A. V. Price listed main money-making projects as a rummage sale, tag day, coffee party and bridge tea. Among donations made to the hospital were Chic Smart fracture frames, bedside lamps, baby scales, an oxygen tent, and airline inhalators.

The treasurer, Mrs. P. E. Corby recorded that the annual $400 Lena Mitchell bursary had been presented; $100 given to the student nurses' association and $50 to the children's ward auxiliary. Disbursements totaled $1,865.42.

BUSY FINGERS

Five hundred articles were made by 12 members in the sewing group during the year. Mrs. H. J. Pinhorn reported. These included dressing tray covers, doctor's towels, binds, baby sheets and air ring covers.

Mrs. R. O. Bell, speaking for a committee formed last year to make hospital dressings announced that 26,580 dressings were completed. The buying committee had spent $569.17. Mrs. J. F. Hough said. It is also planned to assist in buying drapes for the new staff dining room and a new oxygen tent, she announced.

Other reports were given by Mrs. J. H. Newton, membership; Mrs. G. Greenhill, telephone; Miss M. A. Curry, correspon-

Role of the Volunteer in the Modern Hospital

The increased size of hospitals and modern methods of hospitalization give the uninformed public the impression that the individuality of the patient is lost in a welter of rules and regulations, the speaker pointed out.

Members of a hospital auxiliary have a big opportunity to correct this impression, he said. Through them the public can be educated to understand that a hospital does have "a heart and soul" and that "the patient, as an individual, is of greatest importance."

Mr. Gilmore was introduced by Mrs. Thorpe and thanked by Mrs. J. L. Hobbs.

Nominations chairman Mrs. Bell announced Mrs. Thorpe had been returned as president for a second year. Other officers are Mrs. R. A. Dykes, first vice president; Mrs. J. R. Hobbs, second; Mrs. W. E. Speed, recording secretary; Mrs. B. L. Sekere, corresponding and Mrs. F. D. Lee, treasurer.

Guest speaker A. G. Gilmore, personnel director at the hospital, took as his theme, "The

"once I was frightened to make pastry! (but since using Jewel I've never had a failure!)"

WHY DON'T YOU BAKE THIS SCRUMPTIOUS RAISIN PIE? THE PASTRY IS JEWEL-GUARANTEED

Raisin Meringue Pie

First, a flaky, melt-in-mouth Jewel pastry shell... then plump raisins in a juicy-fruit filling... and on top, a crown of snowy meringue. There's a pie for you! (P.S. And there's a man-trap, if we ever saw one!)

PASTRY

1/2 cup Quick-Mix Jewel
Shortening
1 cup sifted, all-purpose flour
Sift flour with salt. Cut in Jewel with pastry blender or two knives till mixture is like coarse cornmeal. You know, there's a very special reason for insisting on Quick-Mix Jewel. Jewel's pure, pure ingredients are blended to smooth, failure-proof perfection. That's why cooking-wise mothers tell new brides: "Don't take chances with your baking—rely on JEWEL." Now you have Jewel blended with the flour, sprinkle cold water, a little at a time, over the mixture. Try to use the minimum amount of water. Blend it in with a fork until dry spots disappear. Place dough on waxed paper, and shape into a ball. Let stand at room temperature 15 minutes. Roll out on floured board or pastry cloth and fit into 8-inch pie pan. Flute edges and prick pastry all over with fork. Bake at 450°F for 10 to 15 minutes.

FILLING

2 cups boiling water
1 cup seedless raisins
1/2 cup cornstarch
1/2 cup cold water
1/2 teaspoon salt

1/2 cup corn syrup
2 tablespoons sugar
2 egg yolks
grated rind 1 orange
1 tablespoon lemon juice

Pour boiling water over raisins. Cover and let stand 20 minutes. Mix cornstarch, water, salt, corn syrup and sugar. Drain water from raisins and add liquid to cornstarch mixture. Cook over low heat until thick, stirring constantly. Slowly pour hot mixture over slightly beaten egg yolks, stirring all the while. Return mixture to heat, add raisins and cook until thick and glossy. Remove from heat. Add orange rind, lemon juice and butter. Cool. Pour into baked pastry shell. Use left-over egg whites and 1/4 cup sugar to make meringue. Pipe over filling and brown lightly in moderate oven. Cool—and serve with the pride you'll ALWAYS feel when you bake a Jewel pie.

LECTURER SAYS

Canadian Women Informed, Interested in Conditions

LONDON (CP)—The Countess of Listowel says "Canadian women are far more interested in politics than English women."

"Canadian women are well aware of their country's importance in the world today," says Hungarian-born Lady Listowel, back in Britain after a whirlwind lecture tour of Canada.

She addressed women's clubs across Canada on such weighty world topics as "The Consequence of the Geneva Failure," and "Recent Developments in the Soviet Orbit." And she found her large audiences interested — and concerned — about the world situation.

It has always interested her. Before she was 20, she acquired an honors degree in economics, and has been giving speeches "since I was six."

FORMER PUBLISHER

"I started at a birthday party in Hungary," says Lady Listowel.

GREETINGS CONVEYED

Mrs. Gordon Wismer, president of the Women's Canadian Club of Victoria, conveyed greetings to Lady Tweedsmuir at a joint meeting of Victoria Chamber of Commerce with the Men's and Women's Canadian Clubs Wednesday.

Expressing thanks to the guest speaker, Lord Tweedsmuir, Mrs. Wismer said: "I understand Lady Tweedsmuir is as clever as he is. She was elected Conservative member of Parliament for South Aberdeen with a huge majority although North Aberdeen is a solid Labor constituency."

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Or you want to win a set of valuable books? Then ask Andy. Andy who is a jolly old fellow, will answer the questions submitted by child readers of Canada and the U.S. Children who submit the questions or select to answer will receive as prize the main question, either a 16-volume set of "The Children's Book" or a 20-volume set of "The American People's Encyclopedia." Prizes for the secondary question will be an "America's People's Encyclopedia Year Book" or a year's subscription to "Treasure Trails" plus "Andy's Everyday Encyclopedia."

Address your questions to "Ask Andy" Victoria Daily Times Victoria.

Andy sends a complete 20-volume set of The American People's Encyclopedia to Betty Bogner, aged 11, of Fairfield, Conn., for her question:

How Does the Sun Get Its Energy?

These days, we often hear that the sun is a hydrogen furnace. Its heat and light are like the fury of a hydrogen bomb. Yet our biggest bomb goes off in a split second. The sun has been blazing away for billions of years. It will go on blazing for billions of years to come.

In the sun, countless of little bombs are going off every second. Each little bomb has been five million years in the making. Atoms in the heart of the sun are under terrific heat and pressure. Their outer shells of electrons are stripped from them. The little bombs are made from these stripped atoms. We call this subatomic energy.

In five million years, four atoms of hydrogen become one atom of helium. The process is thought to take six complex steps. A carbon atom is used to start things going. Inotope atoms of nitrogen and oxygen are formed along the way. It is a sort of gin runny game among the particles that make up these atoms. Certain particles are taken and others discarded along the way. The radiant energy of the sun comes from the discarded particles. When the merger is complete, the carbon atom is clear and ready to start off another cycle.

The final helium atom has fewer particles than the original hydrogen atoms. These extra particles have been given off as the heat and light of the sun. The fuel used in the furnace is hydrogen gas, of which the sun has a boundless supply. Helium gas is the ash left behind after the bomb cycle is complete.

One of these little atom bombs would not amount to much. But in the sun their number going off every second is beyond imagination. It is possible to estimate the total energy given off by the sun in tons per second. Let's try and imagine what one ounce of heat and light energy would be.

Suppose a 40-watt light bulb could burn without stopping for two million years. It would give off one ounce of energy. The sun gives off four million tons of energy every second. One pound of that energy is enough to turn 30 million tons of solid rock into seething lava.

Andy sends a year's subscription to Treasure Trails to Tommy Beer, aged 10, of Flatwoods, W. Va. for his question:

How come it is always ladies first?

Almost every young fellow wonders why this is so. It may seem to him. It is part of the manners he has to learn as he grows to be a man. It is a custom. Men let ladies go through a door first. They let them get on buses and sit down first. This custom goes back a long way into human history.

Certainly a girl could get through a door by herself. Chances are she can manage most things for herself very well. But there was a time when men had to protect their women from attacks from wild animals. Then it was necessary for the women to be put in a place of safety first. Then the tough men could tend to things and rout the wild animals.

Come to think of it, that must have made the men feel very strong and manly. The women must have liked it too. It made them feel safe and gave them a chance to give their time to the children. So the custom went on long after we needed it. Men still enjoy the little games that remind them that they look after things. And women enjoy the little games that remind them men can take care of things.

CLIMAX'S 'SECRET OF RIVER LANE' ON C-11 AT 8.30

WARNING—With so many Victorians buying their first television sets during the pre-Christmas months it is time again to warn about the dangers of dealing with TV technicians who have no qualified background.

There is an old saying, "You have to pay for what you get," that holds particularly true in the field of television maintenance. In short, deals that look cheap as explained by non bona fide door-to-door or telephone canvassers are not cheap, as many citizens have discovered to their dismay. The cheap deals are usually the more expensive in the long run.

Actually there is no getting around it. It is proven fact that the upkeep of an average television set costs approximately $5 per month.

The safest way is to deal only with the man or firm from whom you bought your set. You both know one another and he has your interests at heart for you are his customer, a customer who, if he is pleased, may well produce new business for him by telling your friends about the satisfactory relationship.

If it is inconvenient for you to do this then make sure you're dealing with a firm that is a member of the Victoria Chapter of the Radio Electronics Technicians' Association whose members are banded together in knowledge of their job and in their determination to give the public a fair shake.

However, if you feel you have to deal with a door-to-door canvasser then ask him to present his credentials. Or you can telephone the local Chamber of Commerce whose good office will steer you clear of trouble.

KILOWATT-KINGS

Seattle Tops U.S. In Electric Stoves

By MONTE ROBERTS

The expression "you're cookin' with gas" is apparently as rare in Seattle as a good five-cent cigar.

The authority for this statement is Dr. Paul Raver, whose interest in electricity might be inclined to create prejudice, but whose facts are based on the United States Census Bureau.

Dr. Raver, here to address a meeting of B.C. Power Commission district managers Wednesday, said in an interview Seattle has more electric stoves than any other city on the continent.

In fact, Dr. Raver said, Seattle has more than five times as many electric ranges as New York.

With a population of 550,000, the 1950 census showed 173,000 kilowatt-powered stoves for Seattle. New Yorkers struggle along with 33,000.

The reason? "I guess Seattle is just electricity-conscious," said Dr. Raver. Which makes his job a good one; he is superintendent of the municipally-owned Seattle City Light Co.

SPECIAL RATE

Dr. Raver said 136,000 Seattle homes qualified for a special low rate as "all-electric" homes, meaning they have a minimum in electric equipment of at least a stove and water heater.

Dr. Raver is regarded as one of the most competent men in his field on this continent.

Prior to taking over as head of the Seattle City Light Co. two years ago, he was chairman of the Bonneville Power Administration, and as such was instrumental in building up the huge Columbia River power development.

Originally from Illinois, he has lived in the Pacific Northwest for 17 years, chooses Victoria as his favorite vacation area.

A GENERAL MOTORS VALUE

Strangers—with a Mutual Friend!

Anyone who owns and drives a Cadillac will find this a familiar scene.

For it is not at all unusual for Cadillac owners to salute one another as they pass on the highway... or to exchange approving nods as they wait at the traffic light.

Cadillac owners, you see, know that they have at least one mutual friend... in the Cadillac car.

And the chances are that if they were to meet they would find they had a great deal more in common than just their affection for the "car of cars."

For Cadillac owners, taking them by and large, are people who share a keen appreciation for the finer things in life.

And, generally speaking, they are people of unusual practical wisdom... who have found in Cadillac the most economical means to the finest end in motordom.

They have learned, for instance, how reasonable a Cadillac can be insofar as original cost is concerned—actually not so far ahead of many "medium-priced" cars.

They have seen for themselves how economical a Cadillac is to operate through the miles... and how wonderfully dependable it is through the months and the years.

And they have savored that final reward for choosing the "car of cars"—Cadillac's extraordinary resale value.

Perhaps, in view of these remarkable facts, the time has come for you to meet this wonderful friend of Canada's most demanding motorists.

We'll be delighted to introduce you at any time you find convenient—and to supervise a personal demonstration on the highway.

Why not come in today?

Again BRITISH EMPIRE AWARD Goes to CHERRY HILL CHEESE HOUSE

CHERRY HILL CHEDDAR
is natural cheese, naturally aged. It is available in many varieties: old wined, extra old, old, medium aged and milow mild.

At fine food stores everywhere

Grand Championship of the 1955 British Empire Dairy Show was won by Max Fehner, cheesemaker for the Cherry Hill Cheese House, Brantford. His October cheese was the highest scoring cheese in the exhibition with a point rating of 98.50 of a possible 100.

The Cherry Hill cheesemaker also won the Sifton Class and Block Class Awards, the Diversey Prize and the Delaval Silver Challenge Trophy at this year's British Empire Dairy Show. The Show was held at Belleville, early in December. One of the judges stated that the quality of the cheese shown this year was higher than in previous years.

It is the traditional skill of cheesemakers like Mr. Fehner together with expert curing, which is responsible for the wide reputation of Cherry Hill Cheddar, Gouda, Brick cheese etc.

ADDITIONAL GRAND CHAMPION AWARD!
Just two weeks ago Mr. Fehner again won the Grand Champion Award at the Western Ontario Dairyman's Convention in Hamilton, Ont. He received a silver trophy presented by the Canadian Bank of Commerce.

Police Laxity Indicted By Tupper

Criminal Code 'Badly Enforced',
Says Commissioner in Report

By TOM GOULD

An almost wholesale indictment of the enforcement of law and order in Vancouver, Canada's third largest city, was handed down Wednesday by Royal Commissioner R. H. Tupper.

BERT THOMAS

Thomas Tries 20-Mile Swim At 10 Tonight

Bert Thomas, only man to conquer the Strait of Juan de Fuca, will attempt to swim from Seattle to Tacoma tonight.

Thomas, who has been training three months for the bid, plans to leave about 10 p.m. from the southern section of the city on the 20-mile swim. His attempt is sponsored by the Tacoma Athletic Association.

"Sure, I'm going to make it. You know me, I don't see how I can miss," he said today.

He will be given a send-off by Greater Seattle Incorporated, the organization which sponsors the annual Seafair, and plans to land at the Tacoma city pier.

The 220-pound swimmer will be accompanied along the route by the United States Coast Guard. Idea of the swim is to raise money to finance a two-way attack on the English Channel this July.

Tupper's first of two reports—stemming from his seven-month investigation into Vancouver's police force—brought forth one outstanding declaration:

"My inquiry has brought me to the firm conclusion that the Criminal Code of Canada is neither properly, nor efficiently enforced in the city of Vancouver."

"There is laxity in such enforcement, and such laxity has been present for many years." The commissioner found that former police chief Walter Mulligan lacked leadership qualifications.

Tupper's voluminous report, over 160 pages, was tabled in the Legislature by Attorney-General Robert Bonner. It deals only with enforcement of law and administration of the police force.

His second report will be prepared at the close of the commission, and will deal with allegations of corruption and bribery, evidence on which has resounded in newspaper headlines across the nation for months.

LACK OF MEN

The commissioner found one pervading fault with the Vancouver police force: it does not have enough men to enforce the law, and it does not have enough men because the City of Vancouver is unwilling to provide the necessary money.

Included in his recommendations was a strong plea for an increase in the force's strength, strengthening of the detective branches, an increase in the support given police by the citizens of Vancouver, and an extensive police training program.

Here are Tupper's findings concerning enforcement of various sections of the Criminal Code:

VAGRANCY: Ottawa, with about half of Vancouver's 400,000 population, registered more than twice the number of arrested vagrants this July.

MOLLET TAKES JOB OF FORMING GOVERNMENT

PARIS (Reuters)—Guy Mollet, French Socialist leader, today accepted the task of forming a new government.

He is expected to ask confirmation of the newly-elected National Assembly next Tuesday.

The Socialist-Radical "Republican Front" alliance, led by Mollet and the new-deal Radical Pierre Mendes-France, has claimed the right to form the new government after the Jan. 2 election, which they considered a Republican Front victory.

Mollet will need support from parties outside the Republican Front.

Ottawa Boosts Civil Spending

Non-Defence Estimates Up;
Military Budget Stays Same

OTTAWA (CP)—A boost in federal spending for the 1956-57 fiscal year was indicated today in main estimates tabled in the Commons by Finance Minister Harris.

GEORGE GARDINER

The estimates—the government's basic spending program for the year that starts April 1—called for budget disbursements of $4,528,141,000, the highest peacetime figure at this stage.

However, it was exceeded over the full year of 1954-55 when Parliament voted $4,529,800,000. The 1956-57 total eventually will go past that mark with supplementary estimates later.

The all-time peak year for spending was the war period of 1943-44 when it amounted to $5,322,000,000.

The new figure, brought about by increases in civilian department spending while defence stayed almost exactly the same, compares with $4,474,300,000 appropriated by Parliament to date in the current fiscal year.

WILL BE HIGHER
The 1955-56 amount undoubtedly will be raised by a set of supplementary estimates before March 31.

Finance Minister Harris' budget last year called initially for budget spending of $4,362,000,000 and revenues of $4,202,000,000 for a $160,000,000 deficit. But revenues have been soaring and Mr. Harris recently predicted his deficit will be less than half the forecast sum.

The new estimate total does not take into account some $315,000,000, customarily not included in budget spending. This consists of $135,237,000 in return loans and advances and $379,515,000 in old-age pensions, which are financed out of special taxation.

But part of the cost of old-age pensions will be added later to the budget spending. The pension fund always has had a deficit and parliament annually votes enough to balance it at the end of the fiscal year.

During the current year, $63,300,000 was needed to write off the 1954-55 deficit.

DEFENCE UP $380
For the coming year, the government's biggest single item—defence—is estimated at an all-time high of $1,774,983,000, up by just $380. There also are small amounts for defence production and civil defence.

Ottawa Discloses Hospital Care Plan

50-50 Cost Sharing
Basic; Diagnostic
Services Included

BUP and CP Dispatches

OTTAWA—The federal government has offered the provinces a sliding-scale system of grants to help pay for a nation-wide plan of health insurance, Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent told Parliament today.

The plan would provide "standard ward care," the prime minister told the House.

As he spoke, Health Minister Martin was outlining the government's attitude to the federal-provincial health conference, meeting in another room of the Parliament building.

Mr. St. Laurent said that the basis of federal payments would amount to about half the shareable costs of hospital services.

LISTS EXCEPTIONS
The federal government was not prepared to share the hospital costs for mental and tubercular patients, a field traditionally provided for by the provinces for which there now are federal grants.

Mr. St. Laurent said the government will also help pay for laboratory, X-ray and diagnostic care for both in and out patients.

This assistance would be available either before or along with implementation of hospital insurance contribution.

He outlined the proposed federal basis of payment in this way:

1. Participating provinces would receive from the federal treasury a 25 per cent share of their actual costs.

2. The other half of the federal government's 50 per cent would be based on the national cost average.

Mr. St. Laurent said his government will assist in diagnostic services.

He reiterated the federal government's stand that it will participate only when at least six provinces representing a majority of the population are ready to start.

No copies of either the Prime Minister's seven-page statement to the House or Martin's more detailed one to the delegates were available to the press. It was understood, however, that at tonight's break-up of the conference sitting, Martin would have a fuller outline of the Ottawa proposals ready for general release.

The conference, now in its fourth day, might last until Friday, Martin told reporters at the luncheon recess. It was probable that, even after a hard look at the Ottawa offer, the provincial representatives would want to consult with their governments at home before making any commitments.

It was known, however, that certainly a majority of the provinces were in favor of the principle of a health insurance plan. They only wanted to obtain as much from the federal authorities as "horse-trading" would accomplish.

NAMED PRIMATE
OTTAWA (CP)—Most Rev. Maurice Roy, Archbishop of Quebec, has been named Primate of Canada by Pope Pius XII.

He now ranks as senior Catholic archbishop in Canada behind James Cardinal McGuigan, Archbishop of Toronto, Paul-Emile Cardinal Leger, Archbishop of Montreal, and the apostolic delegate.

Arabs Mass Near Border
LONDON (AP)—The war office tonight reported Saudi Arabian troop movements near Akaba, only part of supply for British forces in Jordan.

The British government is closely watching the massing of the well-armed desert warriors at a moment of bitter feuding between the rival dynasties of King Saud of Saudi Arabia and King Hussein of Jordan. Britain herself is involved in a territorial and political dispute with the Saudi Arabians in which oil is part of the stake.

A war office spokesman said information received here identified the Saudi Arabian force at about 3,000 troops, with 15 armored cars and 12 field guns.

The Saudi warriors were reported massing at Tebuk, 100 miles southeast of Akaba.

Coloring Competition For Young Totem Fans
Because of the wide interest shown in the tallest totem design appearing in Wednesday's paper and the essay contest for school children on the totem legend, it has been decided to extend the interest by having a coloring contest for younger children.

The contest will be for children who have not reached their 10th birthday.

They will take their totems clipped from Wednesday's paper and color them with crayons in the colors they think the totem should be painted.

When completed, send entries to "Totem Coloring Contest, c/o Victoria Times editorial department."

The prizes will be $10 for the best colored totem, $7 for second prize, $5 for third, and three $1 consolation prizes. All winners will be given an honorary share in the totem.

The last date for entries will be Feb. 15.

'Big Bookie' Denies Paying For Protection

Bancroft Testifies
At Vancouver Probe

VANCOUVER (BUP)—The Tupper Royal Commission inquiry into the Vancouver police department moved toward a climax today. Bookmaker Leo Bancroft admitted he had engaged in bookmaking "on a big basis," but denied knowledge of pay-offs.

Bancroft testified today that he had given up bookmaking in Vancouver about 10 years ago on doctor's orders.

"I did book," he said, "but on a big basis, not a small." He denied he knew anything about police pay-offs.

The inquiry, which is expected to conclude public hearings today in the wake of Commissioner R. H. Tupper's interim report presented to the Legislature Wednesday, was rocked this morning by a sharp verbal clash between tabloid writer Ray Munro and lawyer Nick Mussallem.

Munro and Mussallem clashed during cross-examination. Mussallem is representing Richard Mulloch, a nephew of ex-police chief Walter Mulligan, and fellow traffic constable George Burton at the hearings.

Mussallem questioned Munro extensively about a plaque the writer had produced at an earlier hearing.

The plaque, Munro said, was given to him at Christmas by members of the police department, reading in part, "There stands a man."

Munro said he had not produced the plaque again because he felt there was a "slight stigma" attached to it through references Mussallem had made of it.

Mussallem snapped back, "It was born in infamy," wasn't it?"

Munro said he felt it was "possible some officers . . . perhaps the last remnants of the once-powerful Mulligan regime, sent it to me in the hope I would produce it at the commission and make a fool of myself."

Munro said he would produce the plaque again if commissioner Tupper requested it.

Munro accused Mussallem of breaking a confidence by getting information about him from his former counsel. Mussallem denied this.

The exchange was stopped then by Mr. Tupper.

RUSHED TO HOSPITAL
Another witness, Albert Towne, who had been mentioned earlier in connection with lotteries, denied any such knowledge and said his accuser, Parnell Johnson, was "vindictive" towards him.

Commissioner Tupper then announced that following Parnell's evidence in camera last Friday, Parnell was rushed to a hospital for treatment to his heart condition. Tupper said Johnson is still in hospital, but out of danger.

The commissioner said he would not allow cross-examination of the man.

PAIS QUESTIONED
VANCOUVER (CP)—Victim of a gang beating here two years ago was interviewed in San Diego last week by the head of the special squad investigating evidence from the Tupper police inquiry.

Inspector M. J. Y. Dube of the RCMP, flew to the California city to see Alfred Pais, 33.

The inspector returned this week and submitted a report on his trip to commission counsel J. G. A. Hutcheson.

Pais and his wife were beaten by three men on July 22, 1954. Their attackers were later convicted and jailed.

Pais' name figured in the 1955 trial of William (Silent Bill) Semenic on a drug trafficking charge.

Dube stopped "only a few hours" in Los Angeles and it was indicated he did not see former Vancouver police chief Walter Mulligan.

GEORGE GARDINER

Ex-Postmaster G. H. Gardiner Dies in Sleep

George H. Gardiner, 73, Victoria's postmaster from 1928 to his retirement in 1947, died at home in his sleep overnight after a brief illness Wednesday.

It was only three days ago that Mr. Gardiner was honored for his 40 years of service to Oak Bay United Church, first to St. Columba Presbyterian Church, then to the United Church after union in 1925.

A ceremony was held at the annual meeting of the church in the new church hall, when Judge J. B. Clearhugh presented Mr. Gardiner with a camera light meter, projector, and screen, gifts from the congregation.

BORN IN INFAMY
Munro said he had not produced the plaque again because he felt there was a "slight stigma" attached to it through references Mussallem had made of it.

'Hot Rod' Owner Dies 18 Days After Crash
Death came early today for 20-year-old Frank Richard Lapp, 18 days after being injured in a "hot rod" crash on Burnside Road when a companion was killed almost instantly.

Lapp, who lived at 1325 Lang, never regained consciousness. He had head injuries, internal injuries and a fractured leg.

The crash occurred at Burnside and Marigold in the early morning of Jan. 8.

John William Hitchin, 23, 1955 Kings Road, died at hospital about one-half hour following the accident.

A third man, Phillip J. Fillion, 21, 1175 Yates, received head injuries, severe lacerations and shock. He has been released from hospital.

Coroner Dr. E. C. Hart said he will hold an inquiry into the death of Lapp. An inquest was held following the death of Hitchin.

A verdict of culpable neglect was returned by the jury, although it was not determined who was the driver. Lapp was referred to as the driver at one point in the inquest, and was the owner of the car.

Evidence given was that Lapp's "hot-rod" was travelling over 70 miles an hour while passing a carload of friends on a curve.

The death car left the road, struck a 12-inch culvert six feet from the road, went out of control striking a power pole, flipped into the air and struck a steel stanchion at a service station.

Lapp was found lying behind a tree near the pole. Hitchin was near the car's left door. All three were unconscious when police arrived at the scene.

Funeral arrangements for Lapp will be announced later by McCall Bros.

ACCIDENTALLY SHOT

Bullet Rips Through Saanich Girl's Body

A nine-year-old Saanich girl was hospitalized today after a .22 calibre slug passed through a portion of her body when she was accidentally shot by a playmate Thursday night.

Police said the bullet which wounded Margaret Patricia Stancil, 749 Gladia, struck her in the left shoulder and came out near her left hip.

The young girl was playing with next-door playmates Carol and David Goddard, 763 Gladia, when wounded.

UPSTAIRS
David, 12, son of Lt.-Cmdr. and Mrs. R. S. Goddard, was holding the rifle when the accident occurred shortly after 7 p.m. in an upstairs room of his home.

Lieut.-Cmdr. Goddard told of the accident today.

"My son had just gone upstairs to put up a blackboard in a playroom for Pat and Carol to play with."

"After putting up the blackboard the children went into an adjoining room where a .22-calibre repeater rifle was kept."

"David took the rifle off the rack, opened and closed the breech and without thinking pulled the trigger."

"Pat was in a stooped position about four feet away when the rifle fired."

Mr. Goddard said the rifle was given to David some time ago and that he usually accompanies the lad on Saturdays when he practices shooting.

Lieut.-Cmdr. Goddard said it is possible a shell stuck in the chamber of the rifle when it was being unloaded, previously.

The injured girl is a grade four student at McKenzie Avenue School.

CANADA'S
EXTREMESHigh—Victoria 40
Low—Port Arthur—14Police Laxity
Indicted
By TupperCriminal Code 'Badly Enforced',
Says Commissioner in Report

By TOM GOULD, Times Legislature Reporter

An almost wholesale indictment of the enforcement of law and order in Vancouver, Canada's third largest city, was handed down Wednesday by Royal Commissioner R. H. Tupper.

Tupper's first of two reports—stemming from his seven-month investigation into Vancouver's police force—brought forth one outstanding declaration:

"My inquiry has brought me to the firm conclusion that the Criminal Code of Canada is neither properly, nor efficiently enforced in the city of Vancouver."

There is laxity in such enforcement, and such laxity has been present for many years.

The commissioner found that former police chief Walter Muligan lacked leadership qualifications.

Tupper's voluminous report, over 160 pages, was tabled in the Legislature by Attorney-General Robert Bonner. It deals only with enforcement of law and administration of the police force.

His second report will be prepared at the close of the commission, and will deal with allegations of corruption and bribery, evidence on which has resulted in newspaper headlines across the nation for months.

LACK OF MEN
The commissioner found one pervading fault with the Vancouver police force: it does not have enough men to enforce the law, and it does not have enough men because the City of Vancouver is unwilling to provide the necessary money.

Included in his recommendations was a strong plea for an increase in the force's strength, strengthening of the detective branches, an increase in the support given police by the citizens of Vancouver, and an extensive police training program.

Here are Tupper's findings concerning enforcement of various sections of the Criminal Code:

VAGRANCY: Ottawa, with about half of Vancouver's 400,000 population, registered more than twice the number of arrests.

BERT THOMAS

Thomas Tries
20-Mile Swim
At 10 Tonight

Bert Thomas, only man to conquer the Strait of Juan de Fuca, will attempt to swim from Seattle to Tacoma tonight. The swim originally was set for Saturday night.

Thomas, who has been training three months for the bid, plans to leave about 10 p.m. from the southern section of Seattle on the 20-mile swim. His attempt is sponsored by the Tacoma Athletic Association.

"Sure, I'm going to make it. You know me, I don't see how I can miss," he said today.

He will be given a send-off by Greater Seattle Incorporated, the organization which sponsors the annual Seafair, and plans to land at the Tacoma city pier.

The 220-pound swimmer will be accompanied along the route by the United States Coast Guard.

Idea of the swim is to raise money to finance a two-way attack on the English Channel this July.

Canadians
Win 4-0
In HockeyTurn Back Germans
In Games Opener

CORTINA, Italy—Canada opened its defence of the Olympic ice hockey championship tonight with a 4-0 victory over Germany.

Jerry Thibierge was the individual star of the game with three goals. Jim Logan contributed the other.

In today's other game Austria and Italy played to a 2-2 tie.

The Canadians hit their stride against the Germans right from the opening whistle and scored before most of the 5,000 spectators had taken their seats.

SHOW UP WELL
Scholes burst through on the right and flicked the puck to Thibierge, who drove it home. From then on the Canadians set the pace.

Their shooting was hard, their passing slick and their skating far superior to their opponents. The Canadians edged the rink to full advantage, flicking the puck from man to man, and bore in relentlessly on goalie Jansen.

They came close to scoring three times before Thibierge tried a long screed shot from the German blue line which dived past a startled Jansen to put the Canadians ahead 2-0 within 12 minutes.

Canadians continued to dominate play in the second period with Thibierge registering his hat-trick at 4:40 and Logan punching home the fourth goal midway through the period.

In the third period the Canadians eased off as they protected their shutout.

Official Ottawa
Plan Outlined
By St. Laurent

BUP and CP Dispatches

OTTAWA—The federal government has offered the provinces a sliding-scale system of grants to help pay for a nation-wide plan of health insurance, Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent told Parliament today.

The plan would provide "standard ward care," the prime minister told the House.

As he spoke, Health Minister Martin was outlining the government's attitude to the federal-provincial health conference, meeting in another room of the Parliament building.

Mr. St. Laurent said that the basis of federal payments would amount to about half the shareable costs of hospital services.

LISTS EXCEPTIONS
The federal government was not prepared to share the hospital costs for mental and tubercular patients, a field traditionally provided for by the provinces for which there now are federal grants.

Mr. St. Laurent said the government will also help pay for laboratory, X-ray and diagnostic care for both in and out patients.

This assistance would be available either before or along with implementation of hospital insurance contribution.

He outlined the proposed federal basis of payment in this way:

1. Participating provinces would receive from the federal treasury a 25 per cent share of their actual costs.

2. The other half of the federal government's 50 per cent would be based on the national cost average.

Mr. St. Laurent said his government will assist in diagnostic services.

He reiterated the federal government's stand that it will participate only when at least six provinces representing a majority of the population are ready to start.

No copies of either the Prime Minister's seven-page statement to the House or Martin's more detailed one to the delegates were available to the press. It was understood, however, that

'Hot Rod' Owner Dies
18 Days After Crash

Death came at 2:30 a.m. today for 20-year-old Frank Richard Lapp, 18 days after being injured in a "hot rod" crash on Burnside Road when a companion was killed almost instantly.

Lapp, who lived at 1325 Lang, never regained consciousness.

He had head injuries, internal injuries and a fractured leg.

The crash occurred at Burnside and Marigold in the early morning of Jan. 8.

John William Hitchin, 23, 1955 Kings Road, died at hospital about one-half hour following the accident.

A third man, Phillip J. Fillion, 21, 1175 Yates, received head injuries, severe lacerations and shock. He has been released from hospital.

Coroner Dr. E. C. Hart said he will hold an inquiry into the death of Lapp. An inquest was held following the death of Hitchin.

A verdict of culpable neglect was returned by the jury, although it was not determined who was the driver. Lapp was referred to as the driver at one point in the inquest, and was the owner of the car.

Evidence given was that Lapp's "hot-rod" was travelling over 70 miles an hour while passing a carload of friends on a curve.

FRANK RICHARD LAPP

The death car left the road, struck a 12-inch culvert six feet from the road, went out of control striking a power pole, flipped into the air and struck a steel stanchion at a service station.

Lapp was found lying behind a tree near the pole. Hitchin was near the car's left door.

All three were unconscious when police arrived at the scene.

Funeral arrangements for Lapp will be announced later by McCall Bros.

Named Primate

OTTAWA (CP)—Most Rev. Maurice Roy, Archbishop of Quebec, has been named Primate of Canada by Pope Pius XII.

He now ranks as senior Catholic archbishop in Canada behind James Cardinal McGuigan, Archbishop of Toronto, Paul-Emile Cardinal Leger, Archbishop of Montreal, and the apostolic delegate.

M' Uncle Zeke ain't worried so much about health insurance, if only they'd work out some guarantee against hangers.

Difference between th' Arena pipes an' a cabinet meetin' is that th' Arena leaks ain't diplomatic.

Sort o' June in January in th' daytime, but it's still January in January at night.

Mourned

George H. Gardiner, 73, long-time Victoria postmaster, active in church and community work here for over 40 years, died in his sleep Wednesday night. See story page 6.
